AUTO CENTRALIZATION PROPOSAL IS APPROVED

Action of Ordinance Committee Will Put Millican's Paper in Council Mon.

Centralization of the motor transport system of the Atlanta city government under the garage department, as proposed by Alderman G. Everett Millican, Thursday afternoon was approved by the ordinance committee of city council.

The paper will go to city council Monday for action of that body. A proposal to change the ward line between the seventh and tenth was advised by the committee. The plan was to include that portion of the tenth ward which now lies east of the Central of Georgia railway tracks in the seventh ward.

Members of the committee withheld action on a paper designed to reduce the purchasing power of the city purchasing agent from $500 to $50 when the buy is made without the approval of the purchasing committee.

Decision of the committee to withhold action followed appearance of Steve R. Johnston, superintendent of Grady hospital; Bruce Baxter, superintendent of the city garage, and others who declared that introduction of such a plan would seriously cripple operation of various departments.

W. P. Price, city purchasing agent, was praised for his cooperation with the department heads by various chiefs. They declared he has assisted in every way possible to prevent delays in delivery of materials and equipment and added that restriction of the powers of the agent would re-

The range Thursday was from a minimum of 42 up to a high point of 55 and today's extremes are expected to be approximately 45 and 60.

COUNTRY WHITE HOUSE INQUIRY GROUP URGED

Advisability of Erecting Building Should Be in Committee's Hands Is Proposal.

Washington, February 14. (AP)—A special commission to investigate the advisability of erecting a country white house was suggested by the senate public buildings committee today as a counter-proposal to the recommendation of President Coolidge that $48,000 be appropriated to repair a government building for that purpose at Mount Weather, Va.

While only the most guarded comment was expressed privately by members of congress, it appeared as if the president's selection of Mount Weather had incurred some disfavor at the capitol among members who desired that other localities be considered before a decision is reached.

Scarcely had the recommendation of Mr. Coolidge reached the capitol, when the senate public buildings committee was hurriedly assembled and after a brief meeting reported favorably on the bill of Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, for the appointment of a commission to study the country white house proposition.

It was declared the judgment of the committee that the president's appropriation could not be put through during the current session. A number of members indicated they considered it only fair that various locations be given consideration before an appropriation was made.

Hills have been introduced proposing a presidential residence respectively in West Virginia, Maryland, and Virginia.

Under the Fess bill the commission would consist of the president, the vice president, the speaker of the house, the chairman and ranking minority members of the house and senate public buildings committees, the architect of the capitol, and the director of public buildings in Washington.

It would be required to report to congress the site selected, together with estimates of cost. President Coolidge suggested a country residence for the executive close to Washington in a recent article he contributed to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and yesterday transmitted a request to congress for funds to repair and remodel existing buildings on the Mount Weather site, which is owned by the government.

Rainridge, Ga., February 14. (AP)—One white man and two negro prisoners escaped from the Decatur county jail here today after they had overpowered Deputy Sheriff L. M. Cobb when he brought their breakfast. They seized his keys and pistol and locked him in a cell. They made their getaway in the deputy's automobile, closely followed by a posse led by Sheriff W. J. Catledge.

The three men were confined to the "corridor" of the jail, where they had been sent for minor offenses.

FOUR LOST FLIERS LOCATED, SEARCH IS CALLED OFF

Miami, Fla., February 14. (AP)—Location of Harry Rogers and his three companions at Pine Cay made it unnecessary for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to carry out his plan to lead the search for the fliers again today.

Rogers, veteran pilot, failed to return last night after helping in the earlier rescue of two persons whose plane had been forced down near the Florida keys. These two were picked up by a ferryboat.

Lindbergh spent several hours flying over the Florida keys aiding in the search and had made known his intention of joining the rescuers early today. Before he took off, however, word was received that Rogers and his companions were on Pine Cay, at the north end of Andrews island. His amphibian plane had been forced down late yesterday by lack of fuel.

GEORGIA CONGRESSMEN PROTEST COAL RATES

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS (Special Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, February 14.—Members of the Georgia congressional group today called on the interstate commerce commission in a body to file a protest against the new rates on coal shipments from Alabama and Tennessee mines to the various consuming centers in the state.

Under a recent order by the commission the new rates will become effective February 25, and will amount in some cases to an increase of 17 cents per ton, especially on coal from Alabama mines.

Led by Senator W. J. Harris and Senator Walter F. George, the delegation told officials of the federal rate fixing body that the protest was filed in behalf of a number of Georgia cities.

Formal request was made by Senator George that the proposed rates be suspended for at least six months in order to allow preparation and presentation of legal briefs in opposition to the order.

Later, Representative Sam Rutherford, of Georgia, in discussing the situation, said the rates would work a particular hardship to points in south Georgia.

"This is one of the most important matters that could possibly confront many of the coal users of Georgia at this time," Rutherford said. "In the interest of our people, who should not be compelled to pay these higher rates, we urged the commission to suspend the proposed increases at least pending a formal hearing in the matter, at which time I am sure many of the most prominent business men and heads of big concerns in the south-east will appear to oppose this arbitrary increase. The commission has promised to look into the matter with this plan in view and it is our hope to secure the contemplated action. Rates are already much too high on many commodities and we expect to fight this latest one with all our power."

It was explained to the commission that during the shipping season of peaches, watermelons and other products from Georgia these are heavy and the railroads profit handsomely by these large shipments, and that when these are not moving the rate should be reduced so that the average gives the roads a good showing for the year.

Borglum Statement Is Branded as False By Head of Memorial

Branding as false the report that Gutzon Borglum, ousted sculptor of the Stone Mountain memorial, would return to his former post, G. F. Willis, president of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association, Thursday said that the reports were "typical of the propaganda Borglum has been spreading ever since his dismissal."

"There is not a word of truth in the statements," Mr. Willis said. "It is typical of the propaganda Borglum has been spreading ever since his dismissal. Not only is the association not seeking his services, but the board which was largely attended, unanimously rejected a demand by a group of Borglum's friends for his reemployment of directors at their last meeting."

Vinson Cotton Bill Choked To Death By Senate Red Tape

Defeat of Caraway Anti-Futures Measure Shoves Georgian's Proposal Into Parliamentary Tangle.

GEORGE DECLINES TO PRESS MEASURE

Offered as Substitute to Defeated Bill, Vinson Plan Is Permitted To Die for This Term.

Washington, February 14.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—After becoming enmeshed in a highly difficult parliamentary web, hope was practically abandoned tonight for final passage this session of the bill by Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, providing stringent federal regulation of the New York Cotton Exchange.

The bill has already been passed by the house and only the approval of the senate is needed to make it a law. Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, had hoped to have it substituted for the Caraway futures trading measure, which sought to impose restrictions on future trading in cotton, but the latter proposal was rejected in the senate this afternoon by a vote of 47 to 27 without the chamber being given an opportunity to halloo on the substitution.

Despite the unfavorable outlook, however, plans have been put forward to have the Vinson bill brought up again before adjournment in an effort to effect passage. To this end, Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, immediately after the vote on the Caraway measure, moved to have it reconsidered for the purpose of again offering the Vinson bill as a substitute.

The Harrison motion was temporarily laid aside late today with the privilege that he may bring it up any time desired. In order to return the Caraway bill to its former status as the unfinished business of the senate a majority vote will be necessary. Some misunderstanding as to the status of the substitution motion by Senator George was responsible for the confusion in the minds of senators which permitted the Caraway bill to be rejected without a vote first on the Vinson measure. It was also responsible for the necessity of the Harrison motion to reconsider the defeated legislation.

At the beginning of debate on the futures trading measure Monday the Georgia senator, in a brief statement on the floor, presented his Vinson substitution motion for publication in the official record and, in doing so, announced that he would offer it formally at the proper time and press for adoption. Later he said the announcement had the effect of making the motion a pending matter which was to be disposed of before final action on the main business before the chamber.

In the meantime a situation developed which caused him to see the difficulties to be overcome before effecting final passage and he informed proponents of the Vinson bill that he would not press for consideration. Still it was thought that his motion remained pending and members were surprised when a vote was forced without it coming up.

Senator George might explain his reasons for not pressing the substitution after previously announcing

MELLON REQUESTS $2,500,000 MORE FOR PROHIBITION

After Opposing Harris Appropriation, Treasury Head Decides More Money Is Necessary.

Washington, February 14.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Plans for a more intensive enforcement of the national prohibition law were being prepared today by the bureau of prohibition and customs of the treasury department following the department's request to the house appropriations committee for $2,500,000 in additional funds for the service.

The request, which will be transmitted in the usual manner through the budget bureau, will provide $1,500,000 more for the prohibition bureau and $1,000,000 additional for the customs service. A supplemental estimate for the money had been expected to go to the committee today, but was not sent by the budget bureau. Most of the funds, chiefs of each bureau said, will be used to increase personnel.

Answers House's Request.
The treasury's decision to ask for the additional money for prohibition enforcement forces was made in answer to an inquiry from the house appropriations committee on how much money could be used at once for this purpose. The request was made after the house had refused to concur in a senate amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill which would have made available $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement.

In preparing estimates of this year's needs of the prohibition and customs bureaus, treasury officials said the appropriations had been cut sharply to comply with instructions from the budget bureau that this year's small expenditures must be kept within the amounts expended last year. Daily prohibition bureau was allotted $1,500,000 this year and the customs service given $19,400,000.

Increase Forces.
The chief of each bureau said today that the money if appropriated by congress would be spent largely in increasing their enforcement force. Commissioner Doran of the prohibition bureau planned to increase number of prohibition agents in towns where they were needed, while Commissioner Camp of the customs bureau said he expected to about double the number of men in the prohibition bureau. He said the number of men in the prohibition bureau was 352. He said the number of men in the customs bureau was 1,000. He said the number of men in the prohibition bureau was 352. He said the number of men in the customs bureau was 1,000.

HARRIS IS GRATIFIED AT ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.
Washington, February 14.—Meeting on the action of the treasury department in recommending an additional $2,500,000 for federal enforcement work, Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, said tonight he regarded the announcement as an official vindication of the principle he has for in seeking much larger funds prohibition activities.

While the amount does not reach the $24,000,000 for full enforcement operations embraced in my amendment which the senate approved," he said, "nevertheless, it is an admission on the part of treasury that additional prohibition funds can be used to advantage.

He said he was pleased to see treasury go this far in recognizing the purpose of his amendment.

The Harvest of Gangland

This Associated Press picture, rushed to The Constitution by telegraph, shows graphically a racketeer's glory; throngs gathered at a North Clark street garage to witness the carting away of the bodies of seven overlords of viceland, slain by rival gangsters in what police declare is a renewal of warfare over control of Chicago's beer sales.

MURDER CHARGES FACE THOMAS FOR SLAYING OF HUDSON

Thomasville, Ga., February 14.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—C. C. Hudson, brother of Glen Hudson, who was shot and killed by E. H. Thomas Tuesday at a turnpike still eight miles from this city, has sworn out warrants charging Thomas and Henry Knowles with the murder of his brother, despite a coroner's jury verdict of justifiable homicide in the case.

Hudson declared Thomas and Knowles were in the woods with his brother prior to the shooting Tuesday, and that the came to a mill house and hid themselves in it, waiting for Glen Hudson. He said that there was doubt in his mind as to which of the two men did the shooting. He also claimed that one member of the coroner's jury was a cousin of Thomas.

Knowles, who was in the house at the time of the shooting, said he was in another room and did not witness the shooting. Both men are being held in the county jail here pending a preliminary hearing.

NOISY VALENTINE PARADE IN MACON ENDS IN TRAGEDY

Macon, Ga., February 14.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—Enraged by children playing in the neighborhood and throwing stones on the porch as they distributed valentines, Jetty Mosley, of Roff Home place, here, rushed to his door as the pranksters came on his porch and grabbed the first culprit he could reach.

Seizing a part of a brick he struck his victim, Cleo Sorrow, aged 17, on the head, crushing part of the skull. Cleo was rushed to the hospital by neighbors and placed on the operating table.

Mosley had been sitting beside his sick wife, who was annoyed at the neighborhood disturbance. As the group came to their house, Mrs. Mosley was seized with hysterics and precipitated her husband's rage, it is understood. Mosley was placed under arrest.

Slight hope was held for the recovery of Sorrow by attending surgeons.

COOLIDGE NAMES TRIO TO CUSTOMS BENCH

Washington, February 14.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—The nominations of three men—prominent in public affairs in recent years—were transmitted to the senate today by President Coolidge.

The appointments recommended by the white house were: Plais Garrett, of Tennessee, retiring democratic leader of the house, and Irvine L. Leurot, former republican senator from Wisconsin, to be associate justices on the court of customs appeals; and Henry H. Glasie, former democratic member of the tariff commission, to be a member of the supreme court of the District of Columbia. Chairman Norris, of the senate judiciary committee, said there had been rumors of opposition to some of the nominees, but he knew of no formal protests. He said the nominations would be taken up in the regular order by the committee Monday.

Most of the senate talk revolved about Leurot and Glasie. The latter was severely condemned several years ago by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, for participating in the decision of the tariff commission on sugar duty. Robinson contended that Glasie's family was interested in the sugar business. Glasie was not reappointed.

Mr. Leurot appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee a year ago as attorney for some of the public utility power concerns opposing the Walsh resolution for an investigation of the utilities. He also was an important cog in the election organization of Herbert Hoover.

SHIPPING BOARD GIVES APPROVAL OF SHIP SALE

Washington, February 14.—(By Staff Correspondent.)—The shipping board today formally approved the sale of the United States lines and the American Merchant lines, constituting eleven ships, to P. W. Chapman, Inc., for $16,300,000.

The transaction was concluded after the senate commerce committee decided "not to interfere with the sale." Negotiation of the deal was halted several days ago when the senate adopted a resolution requesting that all the bids for the two lines be examined.

The sale involves the most important group of ships ever controlled by the shipping board. The United States lines includes the famous Leviathan, the world's largest steamship, in addition to the George Washington, Republic, American, President Harding and President Roosevelt, all operating in the North Atlantic passenger trade. The Merchant line includes the American Banker, American Shipper, American Merchant and American Trader, all passenger-cargo vessels.

VERDICT OF $5,000 THOUGHT TOO HIGH BY JUDGE POMEROY

A decision granting the city of East Point a new trial under $1,500 of the $5,000 verdict given Mrs. W. H. Christian is written within the next 10 days, was handed down Thursday by Judge Edgar E. Pomero, of Fulton superior court. Mrs. Christian won the $5,000 verdict in a hearing on a suit brought by her for $25,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received when her foot went through a flattened galvanneal iron bucket entering a water meter in the sidewalk.

RESUME LIGGETT TRIAL ON MONDAY

CHICAGO DECLARES EXTERMINATION WAR

stronghold of "Bugs" Moran, second successor to Dion O'Bannon, Irish gang chieftain, who was killed when his followers clashed with the Sicilian element in the liquor trade.

It was the first gang massacre in the long, bloody history of the Chicago beer war which broke out 10 years ago as rivals killed off each other for control.

Driving up to the garage, five automobiles, five men dashed into the garage. They faced seven men inside.

Caught off their guard, the seven men apparently turned their face toward the wall, and were killed.

A volley of bullets, which to residents in the vicinity sounded like the rapid fire of machine guns, was heard.

Dead men tell no tales and no one was left to tell. Seven bodies strewn along the side of the wall told mutely of what had happened.

Among those killed were Pete and Frank Gusenberg, brothers, and lieutenants of "Bugs" Moran, rival of the famous Aielo gang.

James Clark, brother-in-law of Moran, owner of the garage, and Arthur Hayes, said to be a former state representative, also were identified as were Frank Foster, truck driver, Al Weinshanks, and Frank May, mechanic in the garage.

Police, reconstructing the scene after viewing the slambles, gave their version of the attack.

Four of the bodies were lying face upward, one had fallen across the feet of a dead companion, another faced toward the brick wall interior and the seventh was bent over one of several chairs.

Made Last Effort.

Chairs were overturned as the seven, in their march to the wall, apparently made a last, desperate attempt to get under the door. Automobile tires and accessories were tumbled from a rack nearby as the evidence of a brief commotion and struggle that was silenced by the bullets of the enemy.

No estimate of the number of shots fired could be attempted. Numerous shotgun slugs were found in the wall, and the bodies were riddled and other bullets presumably missed their aim and left no visible marks in the wild attempt to wipe out the rival gang.

The garage, an inconspicuous one-story building, is located in a poor section of Clark street on the near-north side of the city. On one side is located a modest dwelling, while on the other is a cheap apartment building beneath which Sam Schneider runs a tailor shop.

To all outward appearances, the neighborhood and garage itself was the ordinary, peaceful district. A sign painted on the window, reading "S. M. C. Carriage company," gave no hint of a powerful gang stronghold.

The same peaceful appearance was resumed in the neighborhood again tonight as the exterior of the building bore no marks of the bloody battle inside.

50 Shotgun Shells.
Fifty shotgun shells, several empty cartridges and one revolver were found on the floor.

The gangsters have declared war openly and boldly and the police department has accepted the challenge.

Police Commissioner William Russell announced at the scene of the massacre.

"It's the last straw. I am issuing orders for the arrest of every gangster, hoodlum and racketeer in the city."

Gangland had been comparatively quiet for the past several weeks. No outbreaks of any consequence had occurred since police heads sent squads of detectives and uniformed officers on city-wide drives of gambling dives, saloons, beer flats and into gangster haunts.

Thousands of police characters, hoodlums and suspects were rounded up. Guns of all description were taken in the raids.

"Gangland was disarmed," the city felt.

But the peace was merely the ominous calm which, true to tradition, always precedes an outbreak of war among the inhabitants of gangland and the underworld.

The "man with the gun" was not disarmed, as the police and the rival gangsters learned today.

Takes Place on Roll.
The seven names added to the scarlet roll of gangland today takes place in line with such colorful figures as "Big Jim" Colosimo, "Big Tim" Murphy, "Mosley" Enright, Dion O'Bannon, Hymie Weiss, Angelo Genna, "Tony" Genna, Henry Spingola and "Schepher" Drucel.

Some of those in the list had met their death before the days of prohibition, before the illicit traffic in liquor and beer had brought forth armies of men to battle to death to gain control of the lucrative business.

An evidence of gangster wealth was seen today in an examination of the bodies in the garage. Vengeance was the only thought behind the attack as money and valuables were untouched.

In the wallet of Foster was found $1,135; Weinshank was a diamond worth $1,000 and carried a large sum of money; Hays had $900 in bills in his pockets and smaller amounts were found on others.

Frank Gusenberg was the only one of seven who was alive when police arrived at the garage. He died a short time later in a hospital and kept the traditional code of gangland not to "squawk."

Bending over the hospital cot just before Gusenberg died, Sergeant Clarence Sweeney asked: "Who shot you, Frank?"

Keeps Gang Code.
"No one," the gangster mumbled and a few minutes later he died with the secret sealed behind his lips.

Every high police official in the Chicago department was summoned by Commissioner Russell to the scene of the shooting. A thorough investigation was immediately launched and who had heard the shooting was questioned.

No one was found who could give a description of the men. Only one person, Mrs. Heunette Landmann, whose home adjoins the garage, which is owned by the S. M. C. Cart-ers and to reopen the warfare.

age company, had seen the five men leaving the building.

"I heard a roar of shots, screams and curses," she told the police. "I knew that murder was being committed, and I ran to the window. All I saw was a gang of men jump into the two large machines and drive away."

Large holes in the wall where many of the slugs and bullets had imbedded indicated to police the men were anxious only to carry out their mission of death and get away.

Extra precautions were planned tonight to prevent any attempt at gang reprisals. Some believed that "Bugs" Moran, leader of the gang victims, had been kidnapped by their rivals in today's attack and that but few followers remained to attempt revenge.

But police know from past performance that similar situations have prevailed before only to have successors spring up to take the place of the slain.

SAVING IS EFFECTED BY NEW SCHOOL BIDS

Preliminary Tabulation of Heating and Plumbing Figures Made.

Saving of several thousand dollars by readjustment of bids for installation of heating and plumbing on 10 Atlanta schools was indicated Thursday night in preliminary tabulation of figures. Bids of the Loftis Heating and Plumbing company were eliminated by action of the committee. The firm was low on four of the jobs.

Recommendations of the joint committees of the board of education and the Atlanta board of public works will be ready for action by the board at a meeting at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced.

Every effort to have the recommendations ready for city council Monday will be made. A special meeting of the board of education is slated for Monday morning, the school committee of city council will get the recommendations just before council meets Monday afternoon. If council sanctions the papers they then will go to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Tuesday morning for his approval.

Bids for about $1,800 worth of equipment also were included in the list.

Preliminary tabulations which were approved by the joint committee Monday will be ready for action by the board at a meeting at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, it was announced.

Catarrh Is Most Common Cause of Colds and Flu

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections such as colds, flu, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested for the relief of catarrh, none has given such uniformly successful results to the physician or attained such popular favor as the prescription of Dr. Runyon, known to your druggist as Runyon's White Wonder Salve. Applied to the nostrils, morning and night, "White Wonder" gives quick and most delightful relief. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, White Wonder is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with nasal catarrh.

SECOND, EIGHTH WARDS INDORSE VIADUCT PLAN

Alderman Buchanan and Councilman McCutcheon Give Impetus to Move.

Councilman representatives from the northern section of Atlanta joined the ranks of those in city council who Thursday were pushing the proposed Alabama street viaduct from Forsyth street to Haynes extending over the Spring street viaduct.

Importance of the project from a citywide angle influenced Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the eighth ward, to give his hearty indorsement to the projected development as the real citywide improvement which has been suggested for the proposed $8,000,000 bond issue to be offered in March to voters of Atlanta for ratification.

Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, of the second ward, also was added to those who are sponsoring the project.

Construction of the bridge is one of the biggest and most important suggestions which have been made in the proposed expenditure of bond funds out of the contemplated $8,000,000 issue, Mr. Buchanan declared.

"Its significance can not be overestimated because it will serve every section by eliminating traffic congestion and providing new and heretofore closed avenues of traffic communication."

"I can not urge it too strongly. It will be one of the biggest and most needed improvements to be sanctioned from the proposed bond issue."

"Every citizen in the second ward who would favor the bond issue under any conditions will approve of the proposed new viaduct," Mr. McCutcheon stated. "It is a prime requisite to relief of traffic congestion in the first ward and which affects every section of Atlanta. At the same time the structure would furnish a means of ingress and egress to a section which has long been neglected although property owners in the area are some of the city's heaviest taxpayers."

"The project should be included in the list of proposed improvements by all means. It is not a sectional affair, but is one of the most needed in the city at the present time."

MOVE IS INITIATED TO RECALL BILL GIVING FLOOD AID

Washington, February 14.—(AP)—A move was initiated in the senate today to recall a bill authorizing an appropriation of $500,000 for loans to farmers who suffered in the hurricane in southeastern states. The purpose was to make changes before the measure can be signed by President Coolidge.

A motion was adopted to recall from the house the senate message which announced concurrence of the senate in house changes in the bill.

The action was taken so that the measure can be sent to conference and draw out an objection by Senator Tamm, democrat, Florida, to the decrease made by the house in the amount of loans that could be made to individual farmers.

Trammell asserted that the small amounts to each farmer for fertilizer, $3 an acre, would do him virtually no good.

The Harvest of Gangland

This Associated Press picture, rushed to The Constitution by telegraph, shows graphically a racketeer's glory; throngs gathered at a North Clark street garage to witness the carting away of the bodies of seven overlords of viceland, slain by rival gangsters in what police declare is a renewal of warfare over control of Chicago's beer sales.

MURDER CHARGES FACE THOMAS FOR SLAYING OF HUDSON

Thomasville, Ga., February 14.—(AP)—C. C. Hudson, brother of Glen Hudson, who was shot and killed by E. H. Thomas Tuesday at a turpentine still eight miles from this city, has sworn out warrants charging Thomas and Henry Knowles with the murder of his brother, despite a coroner's jury verdict of justifiable homicide in the case.

Hudson declared Thomas and Knowles were in the woods with his brother prior to the shooting Tuesday, and that they came to a mill house and hid themselves in it, waiting for Glen Hudson. He said that there was doubt in his mind as to which of the two men did the shooting. He also claimed that one member of the coroner's jury was a cousin of Thomas.

Knowles, who was in the house at the time of the shooting, said he was in another room and did not witness the shooting. Both men are being held in the county jail here pending a preliminary hearing.

COOLIDGE NAMES TRIO TO CUSTOMS BENCH

Washington, February 14.—(AP)—The nominations of three men—all prominent in public affairs in recent years—were transmitted to the senate today by President Coolidge.

The appointments recommended by the white house were:

Finis Garrett, of Tennessee, retiring democratic leader of the house, and Irvine L. Leurot, former republican senator from Wisconsin, to be associate justices on the court of customs appeals; and Henry H. Glassie, former democratic member of the tariff commission, to be a member of the supreme court, of the District of Columbia. Chairman Norris, of the senate judiciary committee, said there had been rumors of opposition to some of the nominees, but he knew of no formal protests. He said the nominations would be taken up in the regular order by the committee Monday.

Most of the senate talk revolved about Leurot and Glassie. The latter was severely condemned several years ago by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, for participating in the decision of the tariff commission on sugar duty. Robinson contended that Glassie's family was interested in the sugar business. Glassie was not reappointed.

Mr. Leurot appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee a year ago as attorney for some of the public utility power concerns opposing the Walsh resolution for an investigation of the utilities. He also was an important cog in the election organization of Herbert Hoover.

2 GEORGIA ROADS CLASH OVER RIGHT TO USE CROSSING

The Sandersville railroad and the Georgia & Florida railroad clashed before the state public service commission Thursday in a dispute over a crossing at Sandersville. The Sandersville line is seeking authority to force the Georgia & Florida road to permit it to build a track across its lines. The case was taken under advisement by the commission.

Life Term Given Negro.

Anderson Parker, negro, Thursday was sentenced by Judge Virgil B. Moore, of Fulton superior court, to serve a life term for the murder of Ben Booker, negro, following Parker's conviction with a recommendation for mercy.

Parker and Booker were brothers-in-law. Parker called Booker to the door of a house on Randolph street and shot him, claiming that Booker had been "trifling" with his wife, according to testimony in the case.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY COUNCIL ENDS SESSION

Efforts To Aid Southern Workers Discussed at Conference Here.

The social service conference of the Woman's Missionary council Thursday concluded its investigation of the question, "What can the Methodist Episcopal church, south, do about the family and living conditions of the southern worker?"

With legislation "remedying conditions surrounding the working woman and adolescent," as its ultimate goal, discussion was concluded Thursday with addresses by Dr. Alva W. Taylor, of Vanderbilt university; Miss Lucy Mason, of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Wiley H. Swift, of New York, and Mrs. W. A. Newell, of Gastonia, N. C.

Dr. Taylor's address identified the church as a cooperative organization whose influence should be thrown toward labor's effort to take its place in the "common heritage of the earth."

Mrs. Newell, of the social service department of the church, and Miss Smith, Y. W. C. A. worker, and Mrs. Swift, formerly on the national child labor commission, all depicted working conditions for women, adolescents and children in many southern states.

They particularly stressed the need for protective legislation, and Mrs. Newell insisted that the problem was one for the women themselves to solve.

"This solution, when compounded, should be taken before the business man and legislator, who now are absorbed in the quest for a livelihood, and results obtained through our influence for justice and right," Mrs. Newell concluded.

The more than 300 delegates from social service departments of missionary societies in 12 states and 19 conferences of the church east of the Mississippi prepared to return to their homes Thursday night. Dr. S. P. Wiggins, presiding officer of the North Georgia conference of the church, led the final devotional Thursday afternoon.

Arresting officers stated that Nixon was taken into custody just after he had been released from similar charges growing out of his arrest some months ago.

500 Chevrolet Dealers Will Attend Big Sales Meeting in Atlanta Today

M. D. DOUGLAS, Assistant General Sales Manager. L. S. COSTLEY, Regional Manager. R. K. WHITE, Sales Manager, Atlanta Branch.

Nearly 500 Chevrolet dealers and associate dealers accompanied by sales managers and bankers will gather in Atlanta this morning to attend the Chevrolet sales meeting which will be conducted today by M. D. Douglas, assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, and other high officials from the Detroit office. Mr. Douglas and his party are scheduled to arrive in Atlanta early this morning from Birmingham, where they have been holding a similar meeting.

The sales meeting at the Erlanger theater at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon will be the most comprehensive and complete of its kind ever attempted in the automobile industry, officials declared Thursday. The high Chevrolet officials portray roles used in the sales campaign in the Chevrolet show, which is being held in the city. The sales campaign is illustrated in form of playlets, giving the dealers an excellent opportunity to find out just how they can make a profit through their Chevrolet agencies at the end of the year. To make this staging possible, more than a car-load of show equipment, including drops, lights, cars and elaborate curtains were brought here from Detroit for the occasion. A special mechanical crew and stage hands handling the operations of the show back stage were also imported. This Chevrolet show is said to require more attention and equipment than the usual musical show that plays Atlanta.

More than 500 Chevrolet dealers and bankers are to be the guests of the company at an elaborate banquet at the Biltmore hotel at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Sees Greater Prosperity.
"Greater prosperity than ever for the automobile industry in 1929. There is no sign on the industrial horizon of anything but excellent business. On the other hand, many reasons support the prediction of a record automobile year." This is the statement of R. K. White, Atlanta zone manager for the Chevrolet Motor company, who will be host to Mr. Douglas and his staff of officials.

"The automobile industry should build its sales more than 5,000,000 units in 1929," he added. "Tentative production schedules set by the larger producers and the sound economic condition of the country will produce more automobiles per dollar than ever. The sound management under which all companies are now operating are factors causing us to feel confident that a new all-time sales record will be established this year."

"There is little question but that the excellent prospects ahead of the automobile industry should influence business generally in a favorable way. Activity in one line inspires activity in another, resulting in benefit to both. Although it will not openly be required to play the role, the automobile business promises to be the trail-blazer to profit."

"We are in 1929 with employment high and in fine shape. Because of this condition, we are assured of a high production and buying power to insure at the outset a regular flow of useful materials through the channels of trade, which, after all, is the best definition of prosperity. We of Chevrolet are preparing for our greatest year and we are in an excellent position to accommodate the demand which we are expecting will result as soon as the buying public in this territory generally has the opportunity to see and drive the new six offered in the price range of the four."

Atlanta Key City.
Of a similar tenor was the forecast of the total production for the industry of more than 5,000,000 units by Mr. Douglas.

"Never in the history of Chevrolet has the outlook been better," he said. "Our remarkable new six cylinder car should enable both factory and dealer organization to shatter all records by wide margins for 1929. Atlanta is one of the key sections of the country from the Chevrolet viewpoint and this section should figure prominently in the sales campaign calling for the marketing of 1,250,000 Chevrolet motor cars this year."

Associated with Mr. Douglas in today's program are William A. Bles, manager of dealers finance and account; J. H. Blackmore, assistant sales promotion manager; T. E. Chancellor, assistant manager to truck division; J. P. Little, manager service department; and Will Powers, of the sales department. Officials from the Atlanta zone, in addition, to Mr. White, are R. W. Peed, assistant sales manager; E. W. Gorman, sales promotion manager; E. M. Smith, office manager; E. A. Ravatier, manager service department; F. C. Garrard,

INDUSTRIAL BUREAU LAUDED BY WEST AT JAYCEE LUNCHEON

A talk on the work of the industrial bureau of the chamber of commerce by George W. West featured the weekly luncheon program of the junior chamber of commerce Thursday. Introduced by B. S. Barker, executive secretary of the chamber, Mr. West said that since the formation of the bureau 585 new concerns had been brought to Atlanta which employ more than 15,000 people and increased the city's payroll by more than $28,000,000.

While the present advertising campaign comes to an end at the close of this year, Mr. West said that arrangements had been made to continue the work of the bureau through 1930. He advocated the discussion of plans relative to securing funds for an additional campaign of national advertising sometime before the end of the current year.

Entertainment for the occasion was provided by Lane Howe, Jr., who sang several popular numbers, accompanied by Miss Mary McCoy, who was accompanied on the piano by Emma Maddox. Frank Shaw presided.

Don't Let Your Body Get Old!

In spite of eating three or four meals a day—giving the human engine plenty of fuel—many people continue to degenerate into premature old age, lose strength, vigor and ambition. Why? Because modern cooked food does not contain EXOTIC of the vital minerals and other nutrients needed to maintain perfect health and preserve youthful vigor.

Physicians tell us that a lack of these life-giving minerals in the blood stream results in some form of physical weakness, such as anemia, pallor, pimply complexion, wrinkles, unsightly hollows, obstinate constipation, soft teeth, loss of appetite and a general rundown condition.

Wonderful Effects of Virogen.

A noted New York hospital physician first wrote the Virogen prescription. In hospitals and private practice, before its introduction to the general public, it proved a builder of rich, red blood, firm flesh, bone and muscle and an indispensable factor in the correct functioning of the body.

During the first few days of the treatment the appetite and digestion shows improvement; there is an appreciable increase in the general tone, strength and endurance of the nerves and muscular system. The complexion takes on a better color, indicating improved blood. Quickly there develops a feeling of improved general health and strength, which has its influence in steadying the nerves and imparting the power of endurance. In cases where impoverished blood has resulted in loss of flesh there is a gradual increase in weight, the result of improved digestion and assimilation.

Look Ten Years Younger.

Virogen is a scientific vitalizing blood food, in highly concentrated tablet form—NOT a patent medicine. Contains no harmful, habit-forming drugs or narcotics. It is entirely different in formula and results from any other tonic preparation on the market. Don't be only half alive! MISS MORROW STANDS IN SPOTLIGHT'S GLARE

Lindy's Fiancee Learns What
It Means To Be a Celebrity.

Mexico City, February 14.—(AP)—Miss Anne Morrow is learning rapidly what being a celebrity is like.

In the light of no more than the reflected glory of her engagement to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh she has received a flood of telegrams and cablegrams of congratulation and felicitations which have nearly overwhelmed her.

As plain Anne Morrow, former Smith college student, and daughter of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, she might attract little more attention on a walk down the street than many another pretty demure girl.

But as fiancee to Colonel Lindbergh she is very much in the public eye and seems due to remain there for some time to come.

Messages received thus far are from friends, former classmates at Smith college, friends of the family, and many from people whose names she has never even heard—friends and well wishers of Colonel Lindbergh. The messages are from all parts of the world.

Ambassador Morrow himself was not spared. Mexican and American friends alike told him how much to be congratulated he was at the prospect of the transatlantic aviator for a son-in-law.

In Mexico the announcement has matched the turbulent political situation in interest. Everywhere there is the presumption that the wedding will take place in this city. Such is feeling that if it is held here it undoubtedly would be a gala ceremony at which every citizen of this capital, from lowest to highest, would feel compelled by friendly interest and enthusiasm to take a part if no more than that of onlooker.

Further requests for information from Ambassador Morrow and members of the family as to when and where the ceremony would be held were met with the reply that there had been no decision and it was intimated that the young couple themselves did not know.

Meanwhile Mexican Aviation company officials are continuing their efforts to induce the transatlantic aviator to open a new air mail line between New York and Mexico City soon. But if and when a visit by him to Mexico City is in prospect and everyone believes it is—it is very much a mystery.

FUTURE SISTER-IN-LAW PLIED WITH QUESTIONS.

Milton, Mass., February 14.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's future sister-in-law, Miss Constance C. Morrow, member of the class of 1931 at Milton academy, says he is "wonderful."

Envious school mates wanted to learn all about the romance of the airman and her sister, but Constance was unable to gratify their curiosity.

The first of the three Morrow girls to meet Lindbergh, she recalled the details of his reception in Mexico City, while on his good will flight to Latin America and his visit to the Morrow home there.

Schoolmates said she was simply wild to get home to learn all about it. "She was as surprised by the engagement announcement as we were," one of them remarked.

LOUVRE CANVAS COPY, RUSSIAN EXPERT SAYS

Experts Come To Rescue of Picture Figuring in Libel Action.

New York, February 14.—(AP)—Two European art experts with governmental connections, one on the stand in person and the other by deposition, came gallantly to the rescue today of "La Belle Ferronnière," "La Belle" is the portrait whose owner, Mrs. Andree Lardoux Hahn, of Kansas City, is suing Sir Joseph Duveen for $500,000 because he said the picture was not a Da Vinci.

Georges Soriais, art expert of the department of the Seine, Paris, was the absentee witness for Mrs. Hahn. Her attorney, S. Lawrence Mills, had started to read Soriais' deposition, but had not progressed very far into it, when the court recessed for the night.

Earlier in the day Vadim Chernoff, Russian painter, had testified that in his opinion the Hahn "La Belle Ferronnière" was a genuine Da Vinci, and that the portrait by the same name in the Louvre, generally admitted to be a copy, was in reality only a copy of the Hahn picture.

Chernoff said the Hahn portrait evidently had been damaged and rather clumsily retouched. And he added that the copyist, who in his opinion had painted the Louvre portrait, copied all the had retouching on the Hahn picture. He said that the Hahn portrait probably had been painted originally on wood and transferred to canvas. While the 12 business men who are acting as jurors looked a little puzzled, Chernoff described in detail and with many technical expressions just how this was done.

Later, in the deposition of Soriais there was a reference to Naquin, a portrait restorer, and a statement that he had removed the original painting from wood and put it on canvas.

After Chernoff's emphatic and striking testimony of the morning—that the Hahn portrait was the real Da Vinci and the Louvre only a copy of it—attorneys for Sir Joseph cross-examined him at length this afternoon on his knowledge of the old masters.

He said he knew that Leonardo Da Vinci was also a sculptor, but that he never had seen any of his statues. And he said he never had written any books on painting, nor been consulted by museums in Europe or America.

The trial continues tomorrow with the reading of the Soriais deposition.

Overheard Conversation Liberates C. J. Hamby, 25, From Chaingang Term

An overheard conversation Thursday morning liberated C. J. Hamby, 25, from an impending chaingang sentence at the request of state's prosecuting attorneys.

C. J. Hamby and G. T. Hamby, 30, brothers, Wednesday were sentenced to one to two years in the chaingang on a charge of having stolen hosiery from a downtown shoe store. In the courtroom, after Judge Virlyn B. Moore had passed sentence on the two brothers, John H. Hudson, assistant solicitor general, overheard the younger man upbraiding his brother for getting him into trouble when he had nothing to do with the robbery, according to the conversation.

Mr. Hudson brought the matter Thursday morning to the attention of Judge Moore, who signed an order suspending the sentence of C. J. Hamby, after the elder brother admitted that the younger man had nothing to do with the burglary.

Moore Reappointed.

Sparta, Ga., February 13.—G. Pierce Moore, well known farmer and business man of Culverton, this county, has just received his appointment from Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, succeeding himself as fertilizer inspector for this district. Mr. Moore will inspect the fertilizers in Hancock, Baldwin, Putnam, Washington, Glascock and Warren counties. He has held this position for the past several years.

$75,000,000 Highway Bond Issue in South Carolina Under Consideration Today

Public Judiciary Committee Holds Late Afternoon Session; Bill Constitutional.

Columbia, S. C., February 14.—(AP) South Carolina's proposed plan for a $75,000,000 state highway bond issue to complete construction of the state road system within the next four years held the center of the stage today as the public judiciary committee held a late afternoon meeting to consider the measure. The judiciary committee had before it a majority report by a subcommittee of five members that the bond bill would be constitutional even though the question of issuing the obligations was not referred to the voters in a general election.

A duplicate bill sponsored by 26 of the 46 members was before the senate today after its committee had given a favorable report. Debate set for today, however, was postponed until the bill might be printed with several amendments offered.

The bond bill, though not introduced in either house until ten days ago, has been the storm center of the present session, especially in the house where a determined opposition led by the Greenville and Anderson county delegations has fought its progress and denounced it as being unconstitutional.

Supplementing the "pay as you go" building policy enacted in 1924, the bill provides that the state may issue bonds to complete the highway system of the state by anticipating revenues from the automobile license fees and the gasoline sales tax of five cents a gallon. Under the act of 1924, the backers of the bill argue, the road system could not be completed in less than 22 years, whereas by anticipating revenues by bond issue, the state could complete its system at once and be assured of enough revenue to retire the debt in 24 years.

20 Million a Year.

Bond issue would be limited to $20,000,000 a year under terms of the bill which set up a detailed machinery for distributing revenues, retaining the bonds and for safeguarding the public funds from misuse.

Argument on the measure has been further complicated by the fact that it takes away from the several counties two cents of the five cents gasoline tax money on which counties relied to keep up their county roads, and another bill now in a house committee proposes a six-cent tax on gasoline to devote to county purposes.

During the past two weeks expression of sentiment on the bill has included the adverse opinion of grand jury reports in Darlington and Anderson counties. United States Senator Cole J. Blunt, likewise, in a letter from Washington to Representative Keith expressed the opinion that Governor John G. Richards should veto the measure as being unconstitutional if it should be passed without a clause allowing the people a referendum on it.

Governor Richards, however, has announced that if the bill is enacted substantially in its present form he will not veto it.

GRiffin IS REFUSED RIGHT TO CONTRACT FOR WATERWORKS

The supreme court Thursday issued a ruling prohibiting the city of Griffin from holding an election to ratify a contract for the erection of a waterworks plant in that city. The court objected to the plan of financing the plant which amounted to the creation of a public debt. The decision was rendered in the case of Chester A. Ryan, a taxpayer, who sought to enjoin the city from holding the election. The lower court upheld the city of Griffin but the supreme court reversed the verdict of the lower court.

The court held, with the single exception of Chief Justice Russell, that the city's proposed method of financing a new water plant through a transaction with a private firm amounted to creation of a public debt, and therefore forbade execution of such a contract.

The city planned to permit the Griffin waterworks to erect the new plant, and reimburse the company later. The court held in effect that the city thus would have created a public debt, and brought the city within the scope of a law which prohibits a city from making debts beyond 7 per cent of assessed value of property.

Dr. Gosnell Named Head of Political Science Conference

Dr. C. B. Gosnell, professor of government at Emory university, has been named chairman of the Southern Political Science conference for the ensuing year. The conference, which was held in Atlanta February 11-12, was the first of its kind in Atlanta. Permanent organization was effected at the last meeting of the conference and the second session will be held in the spring of 1930.

Dr. Gosnell has been active in establishing conferences on questions of citizenship and government in many instances. He was the founder of the Southern Institute of Politics at Furman university several years ago, and twice since has held similar institutes at the University of Georgia. He was the founder and director of the first citizenship conference, held at Emory university in 1928, and is directing the citizenship conference at Emory university this week.

The members of the executive committee elected at the same time are Dr. Bessie Randolph, Florida State College for Women; Professor Ivy Hudson, Vanderbilt university; Dr. Robert Rankin, Duke university; and Professor George Sherrill, Clemson college, South Carolina.

Henry B. Kennedy Honored by Staff Of Fulton Bank

In expression of their esteem for Henry B. Kennedy, officers and employees of the Fulton National bank Thursday presented the resigning vice president with a platinum wrist watch and a diamond stickpin.

Mr. Kennedy this morning will leave his post with the Fulton National to assume his new duties as president of the Empire Trust company, a position to which he was elected some weeks ago.

At the request of Mr. Kennedy, no ceremony attended the giving of the gifts, representatives of the officers and men simply going to Mr. Kennedy's office during business hours Thursday and presenting him with the beautiful tokens, with no ostentation. The officers were the donors of the watch, while the employees gave the stickpin.

Mr. Kennedy began his connection with the bank at the time of its founding nearly 20 years ago and since has been active in its service. While resigning his post as vice president he will remain connected with the bank by virtue of his positions as a member of the board of directors and chairman of the finance committee.

JURY'S UNUSUAL ACT WINS LIBERTY FOR DUNCAN CLIFT

Duncan Clift, of Crawford county, charged with assault with intent to murder, won freedom in the supreme court Thursday through an unusual act on the part of the jury which tried his case. The trial judge instructed the members of the jury that they could return their verdict in a sealed envelope if they reached an agreement during the night and said the envelope could be opened in the court the next morning.

The jury could not reach an agreement in the case and reported in the sealed envelope that the case was a mistrial. As it is the duty of a judge to declare a mistrial, attorneys for Clift entered a plea of former jeopardy when an attempt was made to try him again on the charge and the supreme court upheld this contention.

William Brewton Compares Watson To Carlyle, Voltaire

Speaking before the City club at Thursday's luncheon at the Ansley hotel William W. Brewton, biographer of the late Senator Thomas E. Watson, compared the colorful Georgian to Voltaire and Carlyle.

Particularly was the Georgia statesman like the famous French philosopher and wit for, like him, he blasted things with ridicule and found that the most effective weapon is wit, Brewton said. The speaker also compared Watson's differences with Wilson with the famous lampooning of Louis XV by Voltaire. He also referred to the fact that Watson's writings were barred to the mailing during the war because of his alleged "defeatism," but pointed out that Watson urged that war be declared two years before Wilson did so.

Brand Urges House To Take Action on Resolution Asking Sweeping Reserve Inquiry

EWALD IN ATLANTA TO ATTEND SESSION OF CHEVROLET MEN

W. R. Ewald, of the Campbell, Ewald Advertising Agency, of Detroit, New York and London, will be a visitor in Atlanta today, coming to attend the big sales meeting of Chevrolet dealers scheduled for the day.

Chevrolet is one of the outstanding accounts handled by the Campbell, Ewald company, which is known as one of the world's largest placers of Georgian Challenges Authority of Federal Reserve Board To Limit Credit Facilities.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, February 14.—Challenging the authority of the federal reserve board to limit government credit facilities in a manner to affect market prices of agricultural products, representative Charles H. Brand, of Georgia, today urged the lower house to take favorable action on his resolution asking for a sweeping investigation of the federal reserve banks of New York, Chicago and New Orleans.

As a member of the house banking and currency committee which drafted the original federal reserve system legislation, the Georgia congressman in a vigorous speech on the floor, told his colleagues that it was never intended that the board should be granted such broad powers.

Representative Brand demanded in his speech today that congress be informed as to "why there has been no payment of any franchise tax on the part of several of the big banks of the federal reserve system" in recent years.

"Net earnings of the twelve banks from the date of their organization down to 1927 amounted to $446,091,220," he asserted. "The franchise tax paid by these banks into the treasury of the United States from 1914 to 1925, inclusive, was $139,173.94. Yet these twelve banks in the year 1926 paid only $818,140."

"For the year 1927 they paid the insignificant sum of $249,501, though in 1928 they paid $2,584,659."

Points to Franchise.

Demanding an explanation as to the disposition of the remaining profits, he called attention of the house to "the fact that the total franchise tax paid by these banks from 1914 to January 1, 1929, amounts to only $142,826,343."

During the year 1926, he said, no such taxes were returned to the treasury by the federal system banks of Atlanta, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas and San Francisco, while for the year 1927 only two of the twelve institutions, Minneapolis and Kansas City, remitted such taxes, he added.

Outlining the scope of his proposed inquiry, Representative Brand said it was important to obtain the following information regarding operations of the federal reserve system:

"What authority of law, or what provision of the act establishing the federal reserve system, grants to the federal reserve board the power to adopt a policy similar to the deflation policy of 1920 or the policy involved in the warning which the board on February 2, 1929, promulgated in regard to making excessive loans and maintaining speculative security, loans with the aid of federal reserve credit."

Action Unbiased.

"Neither do I understand under what provision of the act the board acted in the issuance of its February 2, 1929 warning, though there may have been ample and sufficient reasons existing for either a voluntary or involuntary cessation of such unprejudiced speculation as has been going on in New York for several months to which the New York banks, as well as the federal reserve bank of New York, were parties."

"I think this is true for the manifest reason that it never did occur to President Wilson or to congress that the federal reserve banks would make such excessive loans to persons for purely speculative purposes."

Continuing the Georgia member said:

"If this act confers such authority upon the federal reserve board, speaking for myself alone, I think this authority should be revoked and modified, and in lieu thereof, I think it is the duty of congress to define the powers of the federal reserve board in respect of these matters so that the business world, as well as the banks and all banks of the system, may know how far and to what extent the board may act in reference to promulgating such policies."

"If the board has authority under any provision of the federal reserve act to adopt such policies, as was adopted in 1920, or to adopt a policy the effect of which would be to decrease or increase the prices of the farmers commodities, I think it is the solemn duty of congress to enact legislation sufficient to eliminate such authority."

AIR LINE OFFICIAL ADVISES ROME TO IMPROVE AIR PORT

Rome, Ga., February 14.—(Special.)—According to J. R. Price, southern manager of the Interstate Airline, who was in Rome, it is up to Rome people whether or not this city is on a regular airmail and passenger line.

Mr. Price, who was accompanied by H. J. Graves, chief clerk railway mail service, in charge of air mail, addressed the Kiwanis at their weekly luncheon at the Armstrong hotel and other civic organizations during his stay.

Mr. Price made suggestions in regard to the local airport which he said would overcome hazards that make the flight dangerous. He declared the location excellent and all natural conditions. He suggested the enlargement of the runways. He said the "air business is coming fast. An airport drawn of a flying field is apt to be out of date before the ink gets dry."

He continued, "Rome is not off the direct route and with the new field in Chattanooga being constructed in Chickamauga park that makes Rome almost directly on the straight line of the Atlanta-Chattanooga route."

FIELD SECRETARY TO SPEAK TONIGHT TO LOCAL GIDEONS

Will J. Green, of Toronto, Canada, field secretary of the Gideon Christian Traveling Men's Association of America, will address the local camp of that organization at 8 o'clock tonight, at the Robert Fulton hotel. Members and their families have been invited to hear Mr. Green, who will discuss the work of the organization. J. J. McCord, president of local organization, will preside.

No new hotel has ever made such a record as has been made by the Cloister. It has caught the Florida tide going and coming and there has not been a vacant room in the hotel for the past two months. Many guests who started for Florida have gone no further.

25 PERSONS HURT BY MANHOLE BLAST IN BOSTON STREET

Boston, February 14.—(AP)—A series of gas explosions which hurled manhole covers into the air and shattered plate glass windows in the downtown district injured a number of homeward bound commuters on their way to the south station tonight. Early police reports said more than 25 persons were hurt.

PORTO RICAN ECONOMY URGED BY GOVERNOR

Anticipated Deficit for Current Year Will Run Over Million.

San Juan, Porto Rico, February 14.—(AP)—Governor Townier, delivering his annual message to the legislature today, urged economy in expenditures of a deficit for the current year of $1,200,000.

The governor told the legislature that the property loss of $85,000,000 caused by the September hurricane would necessarily result in less tax revenues, which he estimated would decline next year $2,000,000. The budget and other appropriation bills introduced totaled just under $10,000,000.

Governor Townier cautioned the legislature that the present was no time for demanding expenditures which would need additional tax. On the recommendation of Attorney General Bevelly "for the better administration of justice" the governor said that bills would be introduced abolishing the grand jury system and juries for trials except in cases involving capital punishment.

MRS. E. T. HOUSE REGAINS HEALTH AFTER 8 YEARS

Had Almost Given Up Hope of Ever Being Well Again; Turns to Sargon and Results Are Wonderful.

What hope is stirred in the hearts of those who suffer, when they read, day after day, of the remarkable success of Sargon, the new medicine, in cases that have baffled every effort to bring even temporary relief.

MRS. E. T. HOUSE.

What encouragement there should be in the fact that Sargon appears at the very apex of its powers in these obstinate cases of stomach, liver and bowel ailments, and the desperate cases of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. And it is a fact, for Sargon cures its fame to its triumphs, not to its promises. All this is explained by the Sargon representative who is at the Jacobs Pharmacy's main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where daily scores call to learn all about the astounding achievements of this super compound.

The Sargon representative cites actual cases, personal instances of Sargon's super-powers at work. Cases for instance like the following:

"After eight years' struggle to regain my health I had almost given up hope of ever again being well—then Sargon restored me. My husband says that if this wonderful medicine cost $10 a bottle, it would be worth it."

"An operation in 1921 left me in such a bad condition that my husband has since spent 30,000 dollars trying to restore my health. I was terribly thin and nervous and so weak I'd often have to spend days in bed. Most of the time I could not retain my food and I'd have spots before my eyes and be dreadfully dizzy for hours. I suffered two breakdowns just recently."

"My husband always was trying to help me and it was he who insisted I take Sargon. After the third bottle I had gained 12 pounds. I'm not nervous any more and I eat anything now and I thoroughly relish my food. I am stronger than for ten years and my housework has become a pleasure."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are just simply wonderful. They don't grip or nauseate and are dependable. The Sargon treatment surely was a God-send for me."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. E. T. House, 230 Ninth Ave., Wauwatosa, Wis.

The Sargon representative is at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of the medicine. Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills may also be obtained at the other Jacobs' stores all over Atlanta.

Former Constitution Carrier, Now Wealthy, Here for Visit

Ben T. Campbell Is Leading Los Angeles Insurance Man

A quiet-mannered and yet appearing man visited The Constitution Thursday, inquired for the "old timers," many of whom have passed on, others who have gone into other fields and all famous in their particular lines of endeavor and talked with several of the oldest employees of the newspaper.

He was Ben T. Campbell, Los Angeles insurance man, once a route carrier for The Constitution, an Atlanta boy who literally went out and grew into prominence.

Mr. Campbell was a Constitution carrier from 1900 to 1907, the records revealing that he was one of the best in the service at that time and also revealing that his record rates highly among those who had gone before and followed him. During those days Mr. Campbell was a pupil at the Marietta grammar school and later attended high school.

Heard Call of West.
Upon graduation Mr. Campbell heard the call of the west and went to Amarillo, Texas, where for four years he rode the range and punched cattle over the land where they say the sun shines just a little bit longer and the handclasp is just a little bit stronger.

Later he turned his steps to California and settled in Los Angeles, where he entered the insurance business at a salary of $30 a week. Now he's a member of the Green-Campbell company, doing a premium business of between $250,000 and $300,000 annually.

Mr. Campbell told a story which reached the hearts of the oldest and the youngest Constitution employee. Found Faded Constitution.
Early in January, he said, a party of his friends went out from Los Angeles onto the nearby desert for an outing. Exploring the region they came upon a deserted miner's shack, so weather-beaten that it could not bear the burden of the elements much longer. Rummaging around inside they found neatly folded and yellow with age, a copy of The Constitution, dated February, 1903. Undoubtedly it was left there by a former Atlantan or a former Georgian. Folded so neatly it evidently once had been treasured by its owners. Mr. Campbell now treasures the paper. Mr. Campbell, like many other men, believes that his experiences as a newspaper carrier provide an education.

"Many, many times I have realized just how much good I derived from the French lines, which I carried for a newspaper carrier provide an education. 'It was my first contact with the public, the men and women of the world. I learned then to study them and how to treat them while doing business. The training I got on The Constitution has been invaluable to me.'"

Candy Firm of Augusta Wins World Honors at Paris Show

Augusta, February 14.—(Special.)—The Hollingsworth Candy company, of Augusta, has been awarded the grand prize with gold medal in the international exposition in Paris for 1928. It was learned here yesterday. This story sent out on Associated Press wires Thursday gives Augusta and Georgia unusual publicity, in that it makes known all over the United States the fact that a local product has won the highest award which can come to any candy manufacturer.

Only one such prize is awarded in each line. So far as can be learned, the Hollingsworth candies are the only American candies which have been awarded the grand prize at the Paris exposition. Hollingsworths was invited to take part in the exposition because the local candies, which have been placed at the Ambassador hotel, Paris, and the Metropole hotel, London, and on the Ile de France, flagship of the French lines, attracted much attention in Europe.

Virgil Hollingsworth, president, began the manufacture of candy in Augusta in 1900, in a modest way. Today his plant covers half a city block and its product is widely distributed in this country and abroad. It competed with manufactured goods from many nations in the Paris exposition.

Mr. Hollingsworth, who is in Florida when reached by telephone telling him of the award, said: "It has been my one aim in life, from the beginning, to make the finest confections in the world, and while I am pleased beyond measure over this international award from this world-wide authority, I am no less pleased with the approval that my own people of the United States have given my product."

$500,000 Lease Public Officials Made at Macon To Attend Rites For New Store Of Hellenic Body

Macon, Ga., February 14.—(AP)—Schulte United, Inc., has closed a lease here, involving more than $500,000 for a period of 21 years for a plot 60 by 208 feet on Cherry street, the principal business street of Macon. The new organization will take possession of property now occupied by Person's Drug store and the L. F. M. department store in 1934. On this site will be completed a junior department store of the type which Schulte United is now placing in cities in this country and in Canada.

Tarrytown Postmaster Indicted at Savannah For Funds Shortage

Savannah, Ga., February 14.—(AP)—Among indictments returned here today by the grand jury of the United States district court are those against James E. Boyd, postmaster at Tarrytown, Montgomery county, Georgia, charged with, adding to government officials postal funds aggregating more than $1,200; and against George Thompson, P. J. Johnson and William R. Kendrick, on charges of burglarizing the postoffice at Keesville, Burke county, Georgia; Feig Ling, Augusta, Ga., Chinaman, was indicted for having optimum in his possession, a violation of the Harrison act; and Miss L. E. Faw, of the same city, was indicted for selling morphine. There were a number of liquor law violations alleged in other indictments and several in which automobile thefts were alleged.

Penney Buys Creamery.
Athens, Ga., February 14.—(Special.)—Purchase of the Costa ice cream plant by J. C. Penney, Jr., was reported here today. M. J. Costa, head of the company, is ill, but it is stated the negotiations have not been completed.

AUGUSTUS E. CONSTANTINE.

ant Attorney General T. R. Gross Sunday will represent the city, county and states, respectively, at the installation of new officers of the Atlanta chapter, No. 1, Order of Ahapa, mother lodge of the American Hellenic Educational Progressive association, it was announced Thursday.

Augustus E. Constantine, well-known Atlanta architect will be installed as president along with other officers. Mr. Constantine succeeds James Campbell. The installation ceremonies will be conducted in Taft hall at the Auditorium Armory and will begin at 3 o'clock.

It also was announced Thursday that the ceremonial would be in charge of Dr. G. M. Saliba, of Savannah, who will substitute for James Varas of Savannah, Pa., supreme governor of district No. 2, who was forced by other business to cancel his proposed trip to Atlanta.

COLUMBUS NEGRO PAIR ARE HELD FOR
DRY ACT VIOLATION

Columbus, Ga., February 14.—(AP)—Two negroes, Sam Redding and Allen Boynton, today were under bond of $1,000 each on charges of violating the national prohibition act, after one of the most sensational raids in this territory in recent weeks. A still of 2,000 gallons capacity was seized near Glen Alta in Webster county yesterday afternoon. Federal operatives reported. They said they destroyed 5,500 gallons of "beer" and 25 gallons of intoxicating liquid. Officers said the still was in operation when seized and that the negroes were nearly

White House Gowns Shown In U. S. National Museum

REPOSE IN GLASS CASES

Washington, February 14.—(AP)—While women the country over are speculating on what Mrs. Herbert Hoover will wear March 4, inaugural dresses worn by presidents' wives at brilliant affairs in the past now repose in glass cases in the quiet halls of the National museum. The dresses were collected over a period of eight years by Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoos, great-granddaughter of President James Monroe. The work involved much correspondence, following up vague clues, ransacking of attics and old trunks.

Plaster models upon which the gowns are draped stare sedately into space. The rich folds of satin and brocade once rustled down the white house stairs. Their proud wearers have long since turned to dust, but the fabric still retains its soft lustre. A white gauze dress worn by Mrs. James Tyler is still in a remarkable state of preservation for such filmy material. Broad bands of silver braid on a white tulle dress which once belonged to Mrs. John Quincy Adams are just as bright as when the dress was worn over 100 years ago.

It was with infinite care and patience that Mrs. Hoos, assisted by the late Mrs. Julian James, of Washington, collected the dresses.

Descendants of the early presidents' wives were loath to part with their treasures, nor was it easy to locate the costumes. Even with the first ladies of modern times it was sometimes difficult to overcome their moral scruples against such display. Mrs. Hoos went direct to the late Florence Kling Harding as the latter was packing her trunks and boxes preparatory to leaving the white house. Mrs. Harding not only gave a dress but made helpful suggestions for the plaster manikin which it adorns. These manikins are not intended to look like the women they represent but the styles of hair dressing and characteristic pose are followed out.

Morrison Sisselman, Said To Be Business Failure Here, Found Dead in Brooklyn.

New York, N. Y., February 14.—(Special).—Morrison Sisselman, who had failed in business in Atlanta and who had been separated from his wife after he came north, ended his life today or last night in an unoccupied apartment at 546 East 98th street, Brooklyn, where his brother, owner of the house, had given him permission to put up a cot. Sisselman had slashed his wrists and throat with a razor. His body was found as the result of a letter he wrote to the "world" telling of his intentions.

CLOTFELTER FUNERAL

Funeral services for H. L. Clotfelter, pharmacist and proprietor of the Jones Avenue Pharmacy, who died Wednesday, will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the West End Baptist church. Rev. M. T. Cooper will officiate and Harry G. Poole, funeral director, is in charge.

Mr. Clotfelter was a native of Conyers, and began his career as a drug-

FIFTEEN years ago Reo revolutionized hauling by putting passenger car performance into commercial hauling.

Fifteen years ago Reo again revolutionized the industry by putting pneumatic tires, self-starters, and certain other Reo improvements on trucks. Thus opening new fields of efficiency and economy in commercial hauling.

Five years ago Reo offered its six-cylinder engine as optional in Speed Wagons, and two years later made it standard equipment.

One year ago Reo introduced four-wheel internal hydraulic 2-shoe brakes in truck hauling.

Now Reo, world-leader for practically two decades in commercial transportation, presents a new outstanding improvement. Speed Wagons are offered with the Reo Gold Crown engine, to meet the requirements of today's rapidly changing traffic conditions—an engine that accelerates, and holds the pace in traffic—set by the newest creations in passenger cars.

It throws an entirely new light on the haulage problems of 1 1/2 to 3 ton loads. Buying any truck without seeing this new Reo creation is a mistake no executive thinking 2 to 5 years ahead, can afford to make.

Telephone any of the Reo dealers whose names appear in this advertisement—and a Reo transportation specialist will call and discuss with you, your transportation needs without obligation.

Fashionable Society Witnesses Harvey-Ottley Marriage Services

Miss Mary Harvey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emmett Harvey, became the bride of John King Ottley, Jr., at a fashionable ceremony solemnized at 8 o'clock last evening at the Second Baptist church, their marriage uniting two of Georgia's most prominent families, whose contact with the social and cultural life of the city has been most impressive.

Dr. Carter Helm Jones, of New Orleans, La., former pastor of the Second Baptist church, and a life-long friend of the lovely young bride, read the marriage service, which was witnessed by a representative gathering of southern society.

Mrs. Stephen Banta, organist, and Miss Jean Kendrick, soloist, rendered a program of nuptial music before and during the ceremony, opening with the organ selection, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," from the opera, "Samson and Delilah," followed by Miss Kendrick's rendition of "Beloved, It Is Morn," by Florence Aylward. The program further included "Meditation," from "Thais," and the song "O Promise Me," from the opera, "Robin Hood." The bride party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and while the marriage vows were being said, Mrs. Banta played Wagner's "Song to the Evening Star."

Church Decorations.

The church was handsomely decorated for the occasion with quantities of palms, ferns and smilax, forming a tropical background of deep, rich foliage, for the masses of fragrant Easter lilies arranged in graceful white wicker floor baskets. The five gothic arches behind the altar were outlined in smilax and centered with single tall cathedral candles burning in massive silver candelabra. The central arch was flanked by large Woodruff ferns and flanked on either side by floor standards filled with stately Easter lilies, white snapdragons and long-stemmed white roses. A seven-branched cathedral candelabrum rose from the center of the green background before which the bride and groom stood to take the vows. Two similar floor baskets of lilies, roses and snapdragons were placed on either side of the chancel rail which was festooned with smilax and studded with single tall cathedral candles placed at intervals in silver holders. The doorways, ceiling lights and wall brackets were outlined with garlands of smilax which formed a delicate tracery against the crystal shades over the lights. Palms and ferns were banded in window recesses and corners of the church, the pews reserved for the members of the bride's and groom's families being designated with tall clusters of Easter lilies caught with wide white satin ribbons.

The bride party entered the church down the right aisle, leaving through the left aisle, with the ushers entering in pairs in the following order: Hunter Bell with Preston Arkwright, Jr., William H. Kiser with Edward C. Peters, Dr. Herbert Kennedy, walking with Ernest G. Ottley, brother of the groom, and James D. Robinson with Brooks Morgan.

Wedding Attendants.

The bridesmaids entered singly, led by Miss Virginia Courts and Miss Mary Shewmaker, of Memphis, Tenn., who were followed by the groomsmen, Baxter Maddox and Dan Conklin, entering together. Miss Flora Jenkins, of Columbus, and Miss Florence Eckford, walking singly, were followed by William Harvey, brother of the bride, and Tom Caldwell, of Miami, Florida.

The bride's lovely young cousin, Miss Mary Dudley Pittman, of Raleigh, N. C., was the junior bridesmaid, entering the church alone, just preceding the matron of honor, Mrs. George McCarty, the groom's only sister. Miss Sarah Southerland, of Tampa, Fla., acted as the maid of honor, while Richard Harvey, small brother of the bride, wearing a cunning Oliver Twist suit of white satin, collar and cuffs with narrow rings of pleated chiffon, bore the ring on a white satin pillow, applied with real lace and showered with sprays of valley lilies and narrow white satin ribbons.

Displaying all the lovely tints of the rainbow, the gowns worn by the attendants were fashioned alike of softest chiffon, Miss Courts and Miss Jenkins wearing orchid, with the blonde beauty of Miss Eckford and Miss Shewmaker offset to advantage by tones of golden yellow. Mrs. McCarty's gown was of rose pink, Miss Southerland's of apple green, while Miss Pittman appeared as a dainty Dresden figure wearing a soft shade of French blue. Becoming straight line blouses, cut very low in the back, and bouffant skirts formed entirely of chiffon petals, touching the floor in the back and cut short in front, were distinctive features of the lovely gowns. The necklines of the sleeveless bodices were finished with rose-bertha elaborately embroidered in all-over design of tiny seed pearls and the deep girles of chiffon swathed the long waistline. The attendants wore satin slippers to match their gowns in color and their hose were of Melba shade. Their flowers were graceful arm bouquets of pink and orchid sweet peas, snapdragons and tiny white daisies and lilies tied with long chiffon streamers to match the color of each individual costume.

Watteau Bride.

The beautiful young bride entered the church with her father, Robert Emmett Harvey, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, George McCarty, who entered from a side aisle.

Like a dainty Watteau figure the bride appeared, wearing for the occasion the bride gown of her paternal grandmother, Mrs. William P. Harvey, of Louisville, Ky., moulded after the fashion of the sixties, and especially becoming to her slender, graceful beauty. Developed in softest ivory-tinted duchess satin, the close-fitting basque was cut in points in the back and front, with tiny puff sleeves standing two inches above the shoulders. Cut square in front and round in the back, the neckline was finished with a bertha of rare rosepoint lace, the full, gored skirt touching the floor and a charming fan-shaped train of satin falling from the waistline in the back. Outlining the edge of the round train was a narrow two-inch puffing of satin, just inside of which was a band of passamante fashioned of silver and pearls. The decorative motif was repeated in the 12-inch fringe of silver threads and pearls which outlined the point of the basque in front. The bride's veil was of ivory net applied in fragile antique lace and falling from a wreath of orange blossoms which held it to her soft brown hair across the back of her head. A short face veil of ivory-tinted tulle, which was worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day, formed a becoming cap effect, and completing the ensemble were antique satin slippers finished with rosettes of rosepoint lace. A charming old-fashioned nosegay of white sweet peas, carnations and valley lilies formed a perfect complement to the exquisite bridal costume.

Handsome Costumes. Mrs. Robert E. Harvey, mother of the bride, was modishly gowned in flesh-colored chiffon, featuring the extremely low neckline in the back and a skirt formed of circular flounces following the fashionable uneven hemline. Narrow crystal bands formed the shoulder straps and the soft girle tied in a bow at the back of the side back. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of orchids combined with valley lilies.

H. H. Hooker, the groom's mother, wore a handsome costume of black transparent velvet embroidered in rhinestones, and draped along smart lines. A bouquet of delicately-tinted mauve orchids and valley lilies was worn on her left shoulder.

East Lake Fancy Dress Ball Is Brilliant Valentine Event

Augmenting the round of gaieties coincident with the Valentine season an elaborate fancy dress ball was held Thursday evening at the East Lake Country club, assembling congenial groups of Atlantans and visitors from other cities. Colorful costumes, brilliant decorations and favors rendered a grand dinner-dance one of the most enjoyable of the week.

The ballroom of the club was a bower of red and white, with the floor covered with panels of red and white crepe paper from which fell a shower of myriads of narrow red ribbon and white hearts. Wall lights were covered with red crepe paper leaves. Individual tables which were artistically arranged along the walls of the hall were decorated with silver candlesticks holding slender red burning tapers, which shed a soft glow over the scene. Valentine hats and caps and a profusion of noise-makers added to the gaiety of the occasion.

A handsome box of candy was black transparent velvet embroidered in rhinestones, and draped along smart lines. A bouquet of delicately-tinted mauve orchids and valley lilies was worn on her left shoulder.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. William P. Harvey, of Louisville, Ky., was gowned in black velvet fashioned along straight lines and worn with a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Allen Payne Harvey, of Louisville, Ky., wore an attractive figure wearing a flowered chiffon gown of striking design, the flowers outlined in seed pearls.

Another of the bride's aunts, Mrs. W. H. Pittman, of Raleigh, N. C., wore a modern blue chiffon crepe, the skirt formed of circular flounces, a graceful sweep of French flowers in three tones of blue finishing the waistline at the left side. Pale pink roses and valley lilies in a shoulder corsage effectively completed the costume.

Wedding Journey.

No wedding reception was held, Mr. Ottley and his bride leaving immediately following the church ceremony for a month's honeymoon journey in Cuba. Returning to the city March 15, they will take an apartment on Collier road.

Mrs. Ottley traveled in a smart three-piece costume of olive green faille silk, the straight-line coat reaching to hip length, and the box-pleated skirt being worn with a blouse of egg-shell satin-back crepe. A bige twee top coat, collared and cuffed in handsome broadtail and a chic imported hat of natural colored ballbun, banded in dark brown velvet ribbon and finished with a stunning jade green ornament, completed the costume, other accessories, including a lizard-skin bag and shoes, and beige gloves.

'Captain Applejack' To Be Staged By Ft. McPherson Dramatic Club

Fort McPherson, Ga., February 14. The stage with the glare of the footlights, the delightful uncertainty of a first night, and the colorful pageantry trooping daily across the boards has always proved alluring, especially so when the cast is composed of one's intimates and the play the delightful "Captain Applejack," by Walter Hackett, to be presented the first week in March by the recently organized Fort McPherson Dramatic club. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Rufus Parsons, better known in theatrical circles as Desiree Stemple, for she has an enviable career as an actress in the east and will lend to her role as Anna Valesky as well as to her directing a wealth of professional experience and real talent and ability. Ambrose Applejack, the aristocratic Englishman who has a yearning for adventure and romance, will be cleverly portrayed by Lieutenant I. H. Joffe, while the lovely Miss Catherine Foster will take the part of Poppy Fair, the ward of the Applejacks around whom the plot interest of the play is drawn. Mrs. Agatha Whitcombe, the charming aunt of Ambrose, is an emotional character interested in the upholding of all the time-honored traditions of the house of Applejack, who will be interpreted by Mrs. Robert Joerg, Jr.

Others in Cast.
A pair of crooks who seek to steal the treasures from Applejack, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Pengard, are cast as Captain and Mrs. Oscar Stagny Smith and will offer a splendid performance. Captain Robert Joerg, Jr., as Ivan Borolsky, has a difficult role as a master crook who pretends to represent the spy of the czar in search of Anna and is in reality the confederate and husband of Anna. Lush, the butler, who serves coffee and port at the same time and in the same manner each evening to the distraction of his master, Ambrose, will be played by Captain H. F. Teate, while the trim little French maid will be played by Mrs. I. H. Joffe. Johann Jason, the typical American who can sell anything from a car that will not run to the palatial Applejack estate, will be played by Lieutenant V. D. Whitby in a clever manner. A group of pirates will be represented by Sergeant John A. Johns, Private Welton D. Nichols, Ilns B. Moore, Roy L. Davis, Conrad Elford, Joe M. Brown, Henry Homan, Dewey H. Loford, Samuel C. Spell and Ira Turner.

The play is in three acts and the first act is laid in the library of Ambrose Applejack's house at Polkston Cornwell, the time being a night in winter when Mr. Applejack longs for adventure and romance only to find himself in the midst of his romantic experiences which result in the second act of his dream. In this act some delightful old relics, Spanish lanterns, are used as a part of the props which were taken by the twenty-second infantry during the capture of Manila, P. I. The third act is laid just as the first in the library in Cornwall and in this act the romance enters into Mr. Applejack's life. Captain Thomas E. Guy will be stage manager, assisted by Miss Helel Enfoey. Captain James A. Donahue will be the business manager, while Private Riddle will be the electrician.

Charming Visitor.
A charming visitor, Mrs. M. P. Seals, of Birmingham, Ala., who is the guest of her son and daughter, Major and Mrs. Carl H. Seals, at their quarters in the garrison continues to be a fated guest at social functions. For Friday, Mrs. Charles L. Foster will entertain at a bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Seals at her quarters, while Captain and Mrs. Charles Core Gans will be hosts at a bridge supper in honor of this same attractive visitor Saturday evening. Captain and Mrs. Gans' guests will include Mrs. Seals, Major and Mrs. Carl H. Seals.

Iris Club Plans Municipal Garden In Ansley Park

Under the able direction of Mrs. Eugene Harrington, president, and Mrs. Bolling Sossuett, the Iris Garden club plans to undertake an outstanding work in making a municipal Iris garden in Ansley Park and at the junction of Westminster drive, Lafayette drive, Peachtree circle and Prado. This ambitious program plans rustic bridges, rock terraces and steps, all framing glorious beds of iris, yellow, blue, white and soft purple. This beautiful garden will perhaps be slow in materializing, but actual work will begin immediately.

Mrs. Allen Arley entertained the club last Wednesday, and Mrs. Harrington presented an important letter from Dr. Willis A. Sutton asking the club to plan and cooperate with the city and state in making Atlanta a beautiful spot to honor and entertain the national educational convention in June. A motion was made and agreed on to help beautify some part of the city. A request from the Marietta Garden club that a member of the Iris club talk on growth and culture of "Iris" was read, and Mrs. Bolling Sossuett, who is well informed, agreed to journey to Marietta for this purpose.

Mrs. Sossuett gave a most interesting and comprehensive paper on the growth and cultivation of iris. She gave many details as to soil, growth, proper soil and cultivation of all varieties of iris, Japanese German, English and Dutch. In ending her splendid talk she recited a poem, eulogizing this dainty but sturdy flower. Mrs. Sossuett was instrumental in getting this particular group of people interested and always presents ambitious plans.

A committee was appointed by Mrs. Harrington to work out plans for the municipal Iris garden with the chairman, Mrs. Bolling Sossuett, including Mrs. William Akers; Mrs. Carson Sewell and Mrs. Alfredo Barili. Mrs. Warren Moise will be hostess to the club at the March meeting.

Mrs. Morris Gives Illuminating Talk.

"To insure the best adaptation of the drama to local talent in the club and community an understanding of the early history of drama is essential, in that it gives background, states Mrs. Natalie Buchanan in her introduction of Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris, who spoke on "Early Christian Drama" Wednesday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church in her lecture. Mrs. Buchanan, chairman of community drama, recently aided division of the department of fine arts of fifth district Federation of Women's Clubs of Georgia, arranged the lecture by Mrs. Morris as a stimulus to district clubs to use local talent as a means of expressing great truths through the drama.

That the drama is a fundamental instinct, demonstrated involuntarily by children and savages, that there are records of the drama in which actors took part, and which grew out of the chorus, as early as 500 B. C., and was a part of Grecian religious celebrations; that the drama was suppressed by the early Christians and revived again after 1,000 years as a part of the ceremony of the same religion were among the points brought out by Mrs. Morris in her illuminating lecture. The fact that women did not take part in the drama until much later than the time of Shakespeare and that the early Grecian drama was played to audiences of as many as 30,000 in vast amphitheaters without charge, usually celebrating a victory, while pre-Elizabethan drama in England was usually played to street crowds from decorated wagons or floats which moved from house to house were other interesting facts mentioned.

Mrs. Kate Green Hess, president of fifth district federation, introduced Mrs. James R. Little, chairman of fine arts. Mrs. Frank Miller, chairman of fifth district community chorus, provided musical program consisting of a group of songs by Hugh Radson, interpreted by Mrs. Miller's pupils. Yearly programs for the work will be off the press early in April and may be had by applying to community drama chairmen of the clubs of the district.

Georgia Upset By Tiger Five; Score Is 30-23

Bulldogs Unable To Cope With Weird Attack of Clemson; Thomas Stars.

Clemson College, S. C., February 14.—(AP)—Using a weird floor game and executing it in excellent style, Clemson triumphed over Georgia here tonight, 30 to 23. During the first half Clemson kept the ball on the Georgia side of the court most of the time, passing it around. When a forward broke loose they passed to him and made most of these thrusts count for field goals. Jones and Leslie worked with Crain on this passing game, and the three handled the ball flawlessly. In the second period the Georgia defense came out to meet the strange style of play and the Tigers resorted to more dribbling and long passing, with practically the same degree of success as in the first half.

With the exception of a brief interval in the first half, Clemson led throughout the game. At half time the visitors were trailing 15 to 16. Odell, Crain and Thomas rung in field goals in rapid order and extended the margin, which continued safe. The entire Clemson team played their best game of the season. They show tremendous improvement over their early season form. For Georgia, Captain Harris and Sanford, center, were the most potent performers. There were no substitutions by either team.

Clemson plays South Carolina here tomorrow night.

Harrison A. C. Wins.

Harrison, Ga., February 14.—(United Press)—Harrison A. C. here in a fast game of basketball by score 22 to 14. Both teams played hard and guarded cautiously throughout. Alvin Brantley was high point man for Harrison with five field goals.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR 140 HOURS, GIRL CAGE STAR RECOVERING

Charlotte, N. C., February 14.—(AP)—Miss Nell Fincher, 17, captain of the Denta High school basketball team, tonight seemed definitely on the road to recovery. Unconscious for more than 140 hours, the girl late today opened her eyes and appeared to recognize members of her family in the room at a hospital here. Physicians say they believe she knows what is happening around her but, beyond opening her mouth for food and turning her eyes slightly, she has not been able to move. The girl was injured last Friday in practice on the Y. W. C. A. court here, falling backward and striking her head on the hardwood floor. Physicians say her skull was not fractured.

Martha Norelius Sets New Record

St. Augustine, Fla., February 14.—(AP)—Martha Norelius, national and Olympic swim champion, clipped more than three full seconds from her own 500-yard dash record in an exhibition event here tonight. Her time was 6 minutes, 29 seconds flat, as compared to her previous best time of 6:32.25. Miss Norelius' new world's record was set on the occasion of a water carnival held tonight in her honor, preparatory to her entry in the national championships at Chicago next month.

More than a thousand admirers lined the banks of the pool as the youthful star ground out the 29 laps which made 500 yards. The crowd broke into cheers even before the swim was completed, as it became apparent that a new mark had been set. A. A. P. sanction for the record trial was first received at the last minute and almost up to starting time, officials had no word from national headquarters. A long distance telephone call brought the A. A. U. authority for the official test.

Wake Forest Bows To Duke, 35 to 21

Frank Thompson Gymnasium, Raleigh, N. C., February 14.—(AP)—Pushed closely during the first half by the redoubtable Captain Al Dowtin, Duke university came from behind a 13-11 count tonight at State College to add Wake Forest to their string of basketball scalp, 35 to 21.

Terrific guard play by Bill Werber, Blue Devil, prevented Dowtin from running loose in the final period, and Duke's forwards, Candler and Rogers, aided at time by Tyson, center, divided honors for the victory march.

Griffin Tournay Gets Under Way

The authorities of Griffin High school have fallen into line, and are sponsoring an invitation basketball tournament here.

The first round, played last night, produced four fast and interesting games. In the first battle on the program, McDonough High took the quarter from Hampton, Ga., into camp by a 24-19 count.

Concord's five beat Fayetteville in the second game, winning by a 21-14 margin. Thomaston took the measure of the Zebulon basketballers in the third game, winning 20-12.

The final fray, in which Griffin met the Barnsville A. M. crew, terminated with the Griffin lads enjoying a 25-18 advantage.

The semi-final round games will be played off tonight, with Griffin meeting Concord in the first set-to and Thomaston and McDonough locking horns in the second encounter. The finals in the tournament are to be played on Saturday night.

Two Irish Centers Seek Tom Lieb's Job

Madison, Wis., February 14.—(AP)—Two former Notre Dame centers, Adam Walsh and "Bud" Boeringer, are among the outstanding candidates to succeed Tom Lieb as line coach for the University of Wisconsin's football team.

Walsh has been coaching at Santa Clara college in California, while Boeringer is at present line coach at Detroit university. Both have applied for the berth. Lieb, another Notre Dame star, has returned to his alma mater.

Vols To Start A New Club In '29 Race

New Owner Orders Pilot To "Get a Winning Team" for Coming Season.

Nashville, Tenn., February 14.—(AP)—Just about everything connected with the Nashville Southern association baseball club this year will be new except the franchise and name. There is a new owner, a new manager and virtually a new roster—but they're still the Vols.

Rogers Caldwell, Nashville capitalist and sportsman, purchased a majority stock in the club and right away employed Clarence (Pants) Rowland, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, as his new manager. This deal removed Jimmy Hamilton, long a figure in Nashville baseball, and set Volunter followers to wondering if the Caldwell-Rowland combination could actually transform the lowly Vols into a winning club.

"Get a Winning Club," Caldwell's orders to Rowland were "Get a winning club."

Rowland has started in that direction. One of his first maneuvers was to secure Johnny Brock from Atlanta in a trade and to land Ernie Kreuger. Both are catchers. Kreuger caught 164 games with Minneapolis last year, while Brock, a veteran, has been a mainstay at Atlanta for a long time.

As holdovers, Rowland had Lindgren, a pitcher; Dudley Gilt, first infielder, and Lefty Sigman, outfielder. Gilchrist, a former Auburn college star, looked good enough to hold so with these three to build around, the new manager is reconstructing. "I bought Miltstead from Toledo and Roy Sanders from Milwaukee. Both are infielders. Spencer Adams, once of the Browns, has been bought for a keystone berth. Joe Klugman, with Memphis last season, and Nick Carter, of Toledo, were a couple of other infielders brought into the Vol pre-season fold.

Good Recruiting Ground.
Toledo continues to prove a popular recruiting ground for Rowland as he now has secured Shine Cortazzo, shortstop, from that club, along with Jimmy Horn, outfielder, of the Columbus team. To terminate his record of trading

JUDGES REFUSE TO NAME CHAMP OF DOG TRIALS

Petersburg, Va., February 14.—(AP)—The annual championship stake of the Association of Amateur Field Trial Clubs of America ended at Camp Lee near here, today without a champion being named. Judges of the event announced their conclusion that no entry had shown championship form in the four days of running, and therefore they exercised their right of declining to designate a champion.

In the entry list there were several setters and pointers with records of outstanding achievement behind them but they failed to show the top form required in the running of so important an event as the championship stake. Some excellent bird work was performed but no dog covered the ground with the pace and range expected of a champion.

Two dogs that had shown merit in preliminary heats—Pohls's Comanche R. and Sandy McPherson—were called back and braced together in the second series this morning. The running was in light snow and no improvement was noted over the work done in the preliminaries.

Barney Noyum, English setter, that ran for an hour in a snowstorm yesterday afternoon, finding three bays, was called out again this morning to complete his two-hour heat. He was braced with Hawk's Ben, a new entry, and both dogs ended the test in only mediocre style.

And buying, the new manager traded Lefty Fehr to New Orleans for Miners, a utility man, and started negotiations with Cincinnati for a Mar. Pickett, infielder, who formerly wore a Vol uniform. Rowland is also trying to get Bennie Frey back from the Red Sox.

Tex Almost Realizes Life's Ambition When Chicago Bout Draws $2,658,253.72.

This is the only autobiography of Tex Rickard. It was prepared exclusively for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance. Following is the thirty-fourth installment of the autobiography, which has been appearing in daily chapters.

BY TEX RICKARD.
Written exclusively for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.
The Dempsey-Tunney bout in Philadelphia drew the largest crowd, but the second Tunney-Dempsey fight drew the biggest money. It was in Chicago that I came closest to realizing my ambition of a $3,000,000 gate. The gross receipts were $2,658,253.72, and the federal admissions tax came to $241,659.43.

I might have reached three million if the middle west had been a little better educated to boxing. I had no trouble selling my high-priced seats. It was the others which went slowly. Thousands of persons came to the city the day of the bout, but they didn't buy tickets. And others stayed at home and organized radio parties. The boxing habit was not as well formed as in the east. Nor did it help any when some newspaper humorists described the seats in the north end of the stadium as situated on the Wisconsin line. Still, more than 100,000 fans paid to get in.

Promised Title Bout.
When I failed to hold the first Tunney-Dempsey bout in Chicago I had assured my friends in that city that I would some day hold a heavyweight championship fight there. Circumstances made it the second Tunney-Dempsey fight. One of the chief circumstances was Jack Sharkey.

But Dempsey makes up his own mind. In January I had gone to St. Louis, taking the New York boxing writers with me, to sign Tunney to a new contract. The chief difficulty was that Billy Gibson's contract with the champion had expired, and I had to get the men together on a new basis before proceeding further. With this matter straightened out, Tunney willingly signed a contract, drawn by Dudley Field Malone and Ethelred W. Kemp, Jr., which provided that he was to meet any man of my selection any time between July and January, and that I was to furnish an opponent, hold all promote the bout.

Guaranteed $525,000.
Tunney received a guarantee of $525,000, with the option of taking a fixed percentage of the receipts. He later had reason to be satisfied with that contract. It netted him $901,000, exclusive of his share of the pictures. Now my job was to get an opponent for Tunney. Word came from the coast in April that Dempsey had started light training, but meanwhile Jack Sharkey had been coming along fast. He stopped Wills and Maloney, and no less a judge of boxing than William Muldoon said the Boston boxer had the marks of a champion.

By now Dempsey had convinced himself that he wanted another shot at Tunney, but it became evident that he would have to get by Sharkey first. Dempsey came east in June, signed to meet Sharkey, and engaged Leo P. Flynn as a trainer. The bout was fought at the Yankee stadium July 21, and grossed $1,183,529.70. In a savage battle Dempsey won by a knockout in the seventh round, and I again had the greatest drawing card of them all to send against Tunney.

Pat Joyce, George Getz, Mike Igoe and other well informed Chicago men told me that their city was ready for the bout, and offered me every assistance in taking it there. This fitted in with my plans for several reasons. I had just held a big fight in New York, and you can't run two big boxing shows in one city only a few weeks apart. The middle west was a brand new field. The stadium on the lake front was capable of seating 150,000 spectators, and was much better suited for my purpose than any baseball park.

Goes to Chicago.
I went to Chicago late in July, accompanied by Walter Trumbull and Westbrook Decker, and signed with the South Park board for the use of the stadium, agreeing on a rental of $100,000 and posting a $200,000 bond for performance. Under the Illinois law the promoter of a bout had to be a resident, so the business was done in the name of Mr. Getz, chairman of Mayor Thompson's committee, who became my associate in the bout. No man ever showed more ability, consideration and loyalty. He smoothed all paths for me, and I owe him a lasting debt of gratitude. Mr. Getz never before had been associated with any enterprise of this sort, and he was under considerable strain, especially when thousands of his friends began demanding tickets in the first row.

A Thousand Details.
As usual, there were a thousand details to be attended to and a hundred arguments to be settled. The boxers had to sign new contracts with Getz, which he assigned to me. The stands had to be built, training quarters found and tickets printed and sold, and at the last minute there was a fierce argument over the bandages. Chairman Righeimer and the other members of the Chicago boxing commission picked two wealthy business men, George Lytton and Sheldon Clarke, as judges, and Dave Barry as referee.

Finally came the fight, with its Pattillo Memorial clinched the pennant in the girls' division of the City league Thursday night by defeating the Comptometer team, 18 to 5. Pattillo is now three games in the lead and only two more series remain on the schedule. The defeat of South-east girls by Western Electric, 10 to 5, made their winning certain.

unforgettable seventh round, when Dempsey, with a burst of all his old time savagery, battered Tunney to the floor and appeared to be on the point of regaining his title.

The spectators went almost as crazy as they did at the Dempsey-Firpo fight. That one thrilling round made it an unforgettable occasion. Tunney won the last three rounds easily enough, but fans never will cease to argue over the count in the seventh.

At any rate, Dempsey lost his chance by walking to the wrong corner and Tunney still was champion.

But the argument made a third meeting look like "natural." I did not know then that Tunney and Dempsey would not fight again, and it appeared that my $3,000,000 gate might become a reality.

(Next—The closing chapter of the Rickard autobiography, dealing with the Tunney-Heene fight.)

Purple Fails To Hold Lead In Last Half

Gooding High Scorer for Macon Quint With 13 Markers; B. H. S. Leads at Half.

BY HERB CLARK.

The basketball quintet of Sidney Lanier High, of Macon, repeated its previous performance at Macon, by trouncing the Boys' High five last night on the Henry Grady court, this time doing the job by a 35-25 score. And by so doing, the Poets retained an iron grasp on their position of favorites in the G. I. A. A. tournament, which is to be held by The Constitution in March.

It is probable that the Poets would have scored an even more decisive victory had they been allowed to play the court, as they showed poorly against the Purple until they got their bearings in the second half.

The Purple started off with a bang, sinking two baskets from the field, to throw a real scare into the Poet camp. Poole came back with a goal for the Macon lads, and Gooding tied the count with two free throws. Boys' High began to pull away at this point, and held a 12-8 advantage at the end of the first quarter, but dropped off two points in the standing as the first half drew to its close to lead 19-17 at the intermission.

Boys' High again counted first at the start of the second frame, but the Poets found their mark, and unceremoniously pushed the Purple into the score and later on into the lead, where they remained until the final blast brought on a cessation of the hostilities.

Young was a large factor in this drive. The lanky lad had been unable to hit the loop until several minutes of the second period had been played, but when he did start he pushed the ball through the hoop for 13 markers.

Gooding was high point man for the Poets with 15 markers. His floor game helped the Poet cause in working the ball down the court, and he broke up many a rush which might otherwise have meant points for the Purple team.

Young and Poole, Lanier guards, deserve plenty of credit for their performances. Both lads drifted down the court to drop the ball through the loop when the occasion presented itself, and were on the spot to cover the shots taken by the Purple forwards.

The fact that they were getting the ball off the backboard, preventing many crisp shots by the Boys' High sharpshooters, kept the Purple score down to a point where it was easily reached by the Poets when they found the loop.

Stanton led the Purple scorers with nine tallies and his general game won him the all-round honors as well. Kratt gave the fans several thrills with his shots from the corners. Wynne also played a good floor game for the home team and drifted about to add five points to the Purple total.

The game was fast and well played throughout and was marked by a singular lack of roughness. Referee Hamilton called only about a dozen fouls during the entire game.

Lanier plays G. M. A. tonight at College Park.

Generals Trounce Davidson, 55 - 26

Lexington, Va., February 14.—(AP)—The Washington and Lee basketball team ran riot here tonight to defeat the Davidson college team, 55-26. Led by Lowry, Cox and Williams, the Virginians hopped into the lead after the first quarter of the game to pile up a commanding advantage by half time. The mid-period score was 22-11, notwithstanding the fact that with the half well under way, the score was tied at 10-10.

Orioles Undecided About Spring Camp

Baltimore, Md., February 14.—(AP)—Fritz Maier, newly chosen manager of the Baltimore Orioles, said tonight that no definite decision concerning the training grounds of the Baltimore baseball club, would be made until Monday.

Augusta, Ga., has been mentioned, he said, as a possible location for the spring training camp, but several other southern locations also are being considered. The selection will be made Monday, he said, following the return from New York of Charles H. Knapp, president of the club, and George W. Weiss, vice president, who are attending the International league meetings there.

Advance Sale of Tickets for Miami Bout Reaches $250,000

Sharkey Goes Three Rounds; Stribling Rests

Conference To Select Third Man for Fight Set for Dempsey for Noon Today.

Miami Beach, Fla., February 14.—(P)—With only one of his attractions in the training ring today, Jack Dempsey, promoter of the Stribling-Sharkey elimination bout, went through some financial calculations to emerge with the report that everything is rosy.

Today's ticket sales totalled nearly $250,000, Dempsey said, to bring the receipts from this bout to date to $250,000. The promoter spent some time around the box office today, but found time to watch Sharkey work out in the Miami Beach Kennel club arena.

The Boston sailor went through three rounds with sparring partners, and then skipped the rope and punched a heavy bag. He used up nearly an hour of the afternoon this way, and displayed good form throughout the session. Jack got in his golf in the morning.

Stribling Rests.
Stribling went for another Florida visit today, accompanying Baby Stribling to Melbourne where the younger of the boys was to fight. The Georgia heavyweight will get back into the ring tomorrow afternoon and again on Sunday.

Both of the contenders for elimination honors are finding the Florida sun to be an excellent agency for reducing, and as a result neither is over exerting himself, for fear of too much loss of weight.

Stribling and Sharkey have both appeared to good advantage in their brief and more or less irregular workouts, and both of them will watch their actions in the ring closely from now on to guard against the old over-training bugbear.

Conference Today.

Dempsey will get together tomorrow noon with "Pa" Stribling, Johnny Buckley and the members of the Miami Beach athletic committee in the conference in which it is hoped to select a referee for the fight.

Dempsey will act more as a husher than in any other capacity, however, since he said yesterday that he will take no part in tomorrow's meeting except to keep peace among the managers. In event the conference fails to agree upon a referee tomorrow, Dempsey will go about the selection of one Saturday.

Texas U. Invites Nurmi and Wide

New York, February 14.—(United News.)—Invitations have been received by Paavo Nurmi, of Finland, seven-times Olympic champion, and Edwin Wide, of Sweden, to compete in special events in the fifth annual University of Texas relay at Austin, Texas, March 29.

Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, will be head referee of the games and Ox Higgins, former Texas university football captain, will be manager.

Dundee, Walker Must Defend Their Titles

Chicago, February 14.—(P)—Neither Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, nor Mickey Walker, middleweight titleholder, will be permitted to box in Illinois until they defend their titles, the Illinois state athletic commission has ruled.

Chairman Paul Peha said it was useless for Promoter Paddy Harmon, of the new Chicago stadium, to attempt a light-heavyweight championship match between Tommy Loughran and Walker until Walker satisfied the commission by risking his crown.

Three Auburn Coaches Quit; Bohler Stays

Disastrous Season on Grid Cause for Big Shakeup in Coaching Staff.

Auburn, Ala., February 14.—(P)—Resignations of three members of the Alabama Polytechnic Institution coaching staff were announced today by President Bradford Knapp. J. E. (Boomer) Pitts, for ten years connected with Auburn athletics, was one of those involved.

The others were R. R. (Red) Brown, freshman football coach, and E. R. (Slick) Moulton, assistant gridiron instructor and baseball coach. Pitts, who was football line coach and head scout, will be retained on the faculty in the capacity of assistant professor of mathematics while Brown and Moulton will enter other business, although the latter will direct baseball this spring. In the past two years Moulton has won the southern conference diamond championship twice.

McFadden New Member.
Earl McFadden, who has successfully coached high school football in the Montgomery district for several years, was named as a new member of the staff. Another will be obtained shortly. President Knapp said. Wilbur Huttsell, track coach and football trainer, and Burnum Lee, of the football staff, will be retained as aides to Coach George Bohler, whose contract as head of the athletic department has another year to run.

All three of the resigning coaches are former Auburn athletes. McFadden also played football here several years ago. Dr. Knapp in his announcement said while he felt some changes were necessary, it was not because of the ability of the coaches. He declared his belief, however, that a new spirit may help in the revival of the general physical well being and declared himself confident that Auburn again would assume the commanding place once held in southern athletics.

Official Welcome Awaits Mehlhorn

New York, February 14.—(United News.)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, professional golfer who has won three major tournaments this winter after the P. G. A. selection committee failed to name him on the Ryder cup team, will be given an official welcome by New York city when he arrives here Friday morning from Florida.

Members of the Fenimore Country club, White Plains, N. Y., of which Mehlhorn is the playing professional, will tender him a luncheon at noon at the Hotel Astor. Following the luncheon, Mehlhorn will be received at the city hall by Mayor Jimmy Walker. Other golfers who have been similarly honored are Bob Jones, Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell.

Joe Kirkwood, trick shot golfer, will arrive with Mehlhorn and both players will give exhibitions at the international golf show next week.

Casting Champion Sets Southern Mark

Orlando, Fla., February 14.—(P)—Eddie Bradden, Cleveland, all round national casting champion, broke the southern states record and tied the national record in the accuracy by casting event at the opening of the southern states casting tournament here today. His score was 100 and was made after Lou Huret, Indianapolis, and Bill Stanley, Chicago, were leading with five demerits off.

In the all round event Walter Williams, Orlando, led with six points, while Bradden, Huret and Stanley tied with eight points. W. J. Buck-walter, Cleveland, scored 13 points; Dwight Palmer, Akron, Ohio, 15 points, and Al Foss, Cleveland, 18 points.

Babe Ruth Loses In Second Round
St. Petersburg, Fla., February 14.—(P)—Babe Ruth, home run champion, today was defeated in the second round of the Jungle February amateur tournament here by H. C. Peck of Richmond, Va. The score was 6 and 5. Poor putting cost Ruth the match.

In the semi-finals tomorrow Peck will play Warren Lassing, St. Petersburg, while Walter Bew, Atlantic City, is meeting James Howell, St. Petersburg, and Rochester, N. Y.

Deaf and Dumb Basketball Tourney Starts Tonight

Progressive Club Beats Petrel Quint, 55 To 39

The Jewish Progressive club's basketball team defeated the Oglethorpe Petrels at the club on Pryor street Thursday night, 55-39, in a game that was as rough as a sailor's night ashore.

The J. P. C.'s were out for blood and got it in the form of their overwhelming victory, the margin being more than anyone had expected. Oglethorpe defeated the Pryor street gang in a meeting earlier in the year and the count now stands all square.

Friedland, J. P. C. forward, was the bright-horned lad of the game with his 22 points, 18 of them being made in the first half, when he ran wild and seemingly unchecked. During the second half the Petrels managed to curb his goal-shooting antics and points by him were few.

COLORED PUGS FIGHT TONIGHT AT AUDITORIUM

Once again Atlanta's boxing proletariat will review the promotional endeavors of S. C. Roby, who tonight offers at the auditorium a fight card which, he opines, surpasses any of his previous fistic programs.

The fact that Roby has lined up the pick of southern colored fighters does not necessarily make the show the best the promoter has offered. It is the remarkable low prices that are to prevail which place the card border and all above his previous fistic entertainment.

"Never before have Atlanta fight fans been offered a bargain as I am presenting tonight," said Roby Thursday. The promoter states further: "I am out to win new fans, and I sincerely believe that tonight's card will do just that."

Promoter Roby, already somewhat dizzy from the mass of requests for tickets to the fight, advances another step by predicting a record crowd for a fight of its sort.

Headlining the program are two 10-round bouts, bringing together Cecil Flowers and Roy Dunn, and Tiger Taylor and Cowboy Kid. Fans who have viewed these pugns in action know well the kind of fight to expect.

Other bouts on the card are: Bearcat Oble vs. K. O. Cronell, 6; Happy Hunter vs. Milton Wright, 6; Speedy Freeman vs. Alton Reed, 6; Battle Royal.

CHICAGO CUBS OFF FOR SPRING TRAINING CAMP

Chicago, February 14.—(P)—Confident of bringing Chicago its first National league pennant in 11 years, the advance guard of the Cubs was bound for Catalina Island and its training camp today.

Manager Joe McCarthy headed the party, which was composed almost wholly of battersmen. Several pitchers and catchers will board the train en route, while the second detachment leaves on February 24.

McCarthy was happy but reticent about discussing pennant chances. "With Rogers Hornsby batting and fielding for us, I look like we are going to win the flag at last," McCarthy said. "But don't be too confident. We need a good pitcher, especially a reliable southpaw, and we need him badly. Then we may have more than our share of accidents. But let's talk about the weather."

The early party expects to get to work Monday or Tuesday.

Fields Is Favored Over Gans Tonight

New York, February 14.—(United News.)—Jackie Fields, Los Angeles welterweight, is favored to defeat Baby Joe Gans, California negro, when they meet in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Fields, who holds a victory over Jack Thompson, who knocked out Joe Dundee in a non-title match, is making his first appearance in New York as a 147-pounder. He failed to make an impression here as a lightweight. Interest in the match indicates that another capacity crowd of 20,000 will attend. Fields expects to weigh 145 pounds, and Gans 142.

Northwestern Track Team Hit by Exams

Chicago, February 14.—(P)—Track prospects at Northwestern university have been shattered by the announcement that four members of the team failed to pass their semester examinations and are ineligible for further competition. The ineligible are Einar Hermanson, veteran sprinter; Eddie Farrell, sophomore miler of great prospect, and Robert Woodworth and Frank Sinker, weight men.

All regulars on the basketball team weathered the scholastic storm.

"Beau Geste."

THE closing chapters of the western invasion of the championship Golden Tornado are just being written. These chapters are written in gold—gold watches. All the members of the Tornado squad and coaches will be presented with engraved gold watches by the Georgia Tech Athletic association at a mass meeting Monday morning at 12 o'clock at the school.

Yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Georgia Tech Athletic association Peter Pund, 1928 captain of the Tornado, presented Dr. M. L. Brittain and Dean W. V. Skiles with watches in behalf of the team. The Alumni association also gave watches to Professor A. H. Armstrong and Dr. J. B. Crenshaw. Timepieces were also given to the three Atlanta sports editors as well as Ralph McGill of the Nashville Banner and Zip Newman of the Birmingham News, who accompanied the team to the coast. These mementoes of a great victory by a great team will mean much to every man who gets one and as the years go by they will mean more and more. It is a fine gesture on the part of the Tech alumni and athletic association.

All For the Best.

GEORGIA TECH'S basketballers have felt the sting of defeat by another conference team for the first time this year and friends of the North avenue school refuse to get all "het up" about the matter. "What if they did get bumped?" say these friends, "it'll do more good than harm."

We are inclined to agree with the above sentiments. Tennessee beat Georgia Tech Wednesday night because Tennessee had a better basketball team on that particular night. True, Sid Goldin, the only real veteran varsity man on the squad, was not in the game, but there are likely to be other times when he will not be on the floor and the younger lads on the squad can't depend too much on the work of one man.

THERE are those who will look upon the Tech defeat with a certain modicum of glee and say, "I told you so," with much gusto. Many have contended this season that Tech's basketball squad was just lucky to win so many games and that the Engineers had no team. That, of course, is a lot of hokey. No team can win nine straight conference games without something to win them with. The Jackets have been afflicted with certain faults during the entire season and some of them were too evident against the Vols but the defeat will do them more good than harm.

Any team learns more from a defeat than it does from victory if it is made up of the right kind of material. If Tech can come back after this defeat and hit its stride again a victory in the conference tournament is not beyond probability.

Plenty of Action Here.

TONIGHT the public will be given an opportunity to see two leading contenders for the G. I. A. A. basketball championship in action when G. M. A. and Lanier High, of Macon, meet in a regular schedule game. The Poets are defending champions of the Interscholastic association and the dopesters declare they will give a lot of other teams plenty of trouble here next month in The Constitution-G. I. A. A. embroglio.

The Cadets showed great improvement in their decisive victory over Boys' High in the city prep tourney and they should take the Poets over the jumps but Lanier has a way of coming through under pressure. At any rate it will be an interesting fight.

Sally Leaguers Gather Saturday

Charlotte, N. C., February 14.—(P)—Club owners of the Sally league will meet here at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon to draft a schedule for the coming season which will be satisfactory to all parties.

Judge William G. Bramham, president of the class B circuit, has issued an official call for the meeting and five schedule drafts have been received for consideration. This year the league has been unable to agree on a schedule, owners having refused all drafts submitted them by mail, necessitating the special meeting to try and get a satisfactory playing program.

Nichols Shipped.

Dexter, Mo., February 14.—(P)—Leon Nichols, a shortstop, has signed a St. Louis Cardinal contract and will be sent to the Cardinals' Triple-A league farm at Danville, Ill. Last fall Lefty Nichols, a brother and a pitcher, signed a Card contract. Both are semi-pros.

George Burns Named Springfield Manager

Springfield, Mass., February 14.—(P)—George Burns, former outfielder of the New York Giants, has been appointed manager of the Springfield Eastern league baseball club.

Arkansas, Florida Meet In Opener at 6 O'Clock

Basketball teams from Arkansas, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, North Carolina and Florida, representing the colleges of the deaf of their state, start play tonight in the third annual Dixie cage tournament at the A. A. C.

The defending champions, Arkansas Leopards, willing for the opportunity to defend their laurels, are to start off the fireworks having as opponents the 'Gator deafmen from Florida. It is scheduled to start at 6 o'clock.

Other games in the opening round of the meet are:

Alabama vs. Georgia, 7 o'clock.
Tennessee vs. Mississippi, 8 o'clock.
North Carolina vs. South Carolina, 9 o'clock.

Winners of the two upper bracket games are to play in the semi-finals on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and lower bracket winners at 3:30 o'clock, while finals are scheduled for the night at 8:50 o'clock.

A unique additional feature has been added to the finals which are to be played Saturday night. The First Presbyterian quintet, member of the S. S. A. A., having several of the Tech football players on its roster, will play one of the losers in the semi-finals as a preliminary to the final encounter.

Included on the First Presbyterian team are players who are showing splendid form on the courts. They are Tom Jones, Papa Lumpkin, Earl Dunlap, Ray Isaacs, Heron, Sam Colvin and Buck Flowers.

However, the tournament promises to be one of an extraordinary feature for Atlanta fans. The boys are able to stop at the referee's whistle, their play in every respect is clean and the meet this season in all probability will draw a bigger crowd than in the past two affairs, both of which have been staged in Atlanta.

The Leopards from Arkansas, South Carolina Gamecocks and the North Carolina Cubs are favored for the crown, yet officials in charge expect far superior playing and much harder fighting from other teams than in '27 and '28.

Sam Glassman has been selected to officiate.

TOUCH

A Craig Kennedy Mystery Story

BY ARTHUR B. REEVE.

INSTALLMENT IV.

Outside and apart, Kennedy paused. "Now, Walter, if you want things to happen fast, you've got to help me make them move. I'm going to telephone Mary at her hotel. She expects a call from me after dinner. You can throw anything you want into a suit case. I don't think we'll need it. But your first job is a real one. You'll have something in your hands, all right. Before I reach the station, in about 15 minutes, with Butler, I want you to get that operator away from the key, away from the station. Keep him away for half an hour if you can. You remember him as we came in from the train? They tell me his name is Rinehart, very faithful, always on the job."

"I'll be back with Butler as soon as I telephone. We'll be at the telegraph office in probably 15 or 20 minutes. Now get busy."

It was a dark night. Leaving the hotel I avoided a group of young chaps, men off the various ranches, and sought the station. But that skylarking crowd gave me an idea, too.

The station was not very large or pretentious, but also was new. The railroad telegrapher occupied a little office in the front of the building, away from the waiting room. I sauntered into the station. It was deserted. There was more fun tonight up at Junction City or down at the hotel in fair time. Ordinarily, though, Baiting Hollow was much like other country towns. The station and incoming and outgoing trains afforded periodic village excitement.

I looked around. From the distant office I could hear the click! click! of the telegraph instrument. I looked through the grating. The operator was there, all right, taking messages. Usually I sauntered outside the station again. It excited no suspicion. There was no one much to be excited. In fact it was still a quarter of an hour before the last train for Junction City would pass through.

Once outside, I walked slowly down the railroad track. I must have gone a couple of hundred yards when I stopped to look about. There was what I had been seeking—a shack for storing tools and repairing paraphernalia. I looked in. There also was what I had hoped to find—a coil of wire.

Now I could see my way to get that telegrapher, the faithful Rinehart of the station office. Those gentlemen had helped my idea. This wire showed how to do it.

I threw off my coat, unwound a hundred feet or so from the coil. Telegraph wire is recalcitrant stuff to handle. Besides that, I was nervous. I expected any minute to have some one come along, find me up to some trick.

When I had unwound what I thought would be sufficient, it had been my idea to throw it high enough to catch on the telegraph wire overhead. I had not reckoned with that most rankankankankankank thing to handle, a coil of wire. The wire bent and twisted and squirmed in every direction, got tangled with things in the dark, did everything except what I wanted.

There was nothing else for me to do but to climb that nearest telegraph pole in the dark, with a loop of this unruly wire about my waist. I managed to get up that pole until I found there were some insecure cleats fastened to it. With perspiration seeping from every pore and my hair falling into my eyes, it was some relief when I was able to grasp the crosspiece at the top of the pole.

I felt along from one insulator to another. To make sure, I swung a wire over all of the wires, carefully looping it loosely on one so that an extra smart yank from below would free it from all, then I dropped it to the ground.

I slid down carefully. That was as bad as going up. A cleat gave under me, the lowest, and I went down like a greased pig the rest of the way. I was dirty and dusty and my hands were bleeding. But I did not mind that, as I completed my job. The Baiting Hollow wire was grounded along with whatever others the pole carried. No message would ever go over it now. And with my yarn already made up to tell Rinehart at the station, I knew that nothing would keep that conscientious telegrapher from flying out of his office the moment I sprang it.

With my handkerchief I mopped my face, managed to get some of the dirt and blood from my hands, straightened my hair a bit, and crunched my hat down on my head. Then I hurried back to the station.

"Having trouble?" I inquired, eagerly.

Rinehart looked at me sharply. "How did you know that?" he demanded.

"I heard you swearing," I replied, hastily, with a smile. "This is no laughing matter, sir! Trains go through here. The lives of passengers are in danger when anything goes wrong with the railroad telegraph lines. The little man was in dead earnest, as he should be; took his job seriously, personally."

"I know it," I hastened. "That is the reason I've run all the way back here to tell you. There's a bunch of fellows, men of Bar Ten ranch, skylarking down the line. They made me an old-time tenderfoot dance. The idea is this. I heard one of 'em snipe a bet he could clip a telegraph wire at 60 paces in a minute. If he did let him spot it with his automobile searchlight."

"Did he?" inquired Rinehart breathlessly.

"I don't know. I beat it when they forgot me. But I heard shooting as I ran away. I was afraid they did. I came here. Did they?"

"Yes! That it. Where was this, stranger?"

"Oh, about half a mile down the line." I waved in the opposite direction from where I had made my little plant.

Rinehart ran his fingers distractedly through his hair. "My Gawd! man, what shall I do? No. 247 goes through here soon, is due at 9:05. What if they are trying to send me any orders for her? How many of those devils did you say there were?" he asked, anxiously.

"About a dozen of them. I don't think they realize the seriousness of their offense. They have been to the fair and are all lit up like a church. I beat it as fast as I could to warn you, but it seems I was too late. I'm sorry."

Rinehart grabbed his hat. "All this devilment! I got to go out now and repair that bread. And just now, at fair time, of all times, when traffic on the wire is heaviest—and a train due. Do you want to help me out, partner? Hang around this office a minute. If anybody comes to see about anything just explain where I've gone and what I'm doing. I'm not supposed to leave the damn place. But what's the use staying in it if the line is interrupted?"

The station door slammed and he disappeared in the darkness. For a few minutes I watched him walking down the track, followed by the light of his oil lantern.
